CITY FACES TAX RATE INCREASE FOR NEXT YEAR

Bond Issues For School, Disposal Plant To Boost Figure

$14.50 ESTIMATE MADE

Budget Commission Opens Hearings Tuesday

Circleville faces an increase in tax rates for 1938 due to bond issues for the addition to the high school and Corwin street buildings and the municipal disposal plant.

Although definite figures cannot be established until the budget commission starts its hearings Tuesday, it is predicted that the rate may jump from $13.80 to approximately $14.50. Voters approved the bond issues outside the 10-mill limitation.

Darby Up, Too

Another district that may have an increase is Darby township where a school addition was constructed with funds obtained by a bond issue approved by voters.

The budget hearings open at 9 a. m. Tuesday in the offices of Forrest Short, county auditor. Members of the budget commission are Mr. Short, Robert Colville, county treasurer, and George E. Gerhardt, prosecutor.

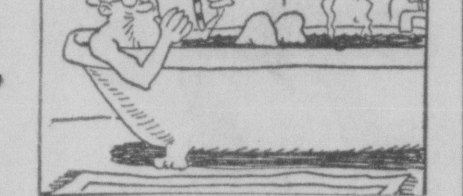

The schedule follows: Nov. 23, 9 a. m., Circleville township, school district, city and schools; 10 a. m., Darby township, school; 11 a. m., Deer Creek township, school, Williamsport corporation; 1 p. m., Jackson township, school; 2 p. m., Madison township, school; 3 p. m., Monroe township, school; Wednesday, Nov. 24, 9 a. m., Mulhensberg township, school, Darbyville school; 10 a. m., Salt Creek township, school, Tarlton corporation, Tarlton school; 1 p. m., Perry township, school, New Holland corporation, school; 2 p. m., Pickaway township, school; 3 p. m., Harrison township, school, Ashville corporation, school, South Bloomfield corporation; Friday, Nov. 26, 9 a. m., Wayne township, school; 10 a. m., Walnut township, school; 11 a. m., Washington township, school; 1 p. m., Scioto township, school, Commercial Point corporation.

TWO ARMY AIRMEN KILLED IN CRASH AS MOTOR FAILS

CAMPBELLSBURG, Ky., Nov. 22—(UP)—A faulty motor today was believed the cause of the plane crash in which Lieut. George Knoeller, 37, and Capt. George Matthews, 40, army air corps reserve pilots, were killed late yesterday.

The officers, Knoeller at the controls, were returning to their Louisville homes from a meeting of the Fifth Corps air reserves when the plane crashed into a snow-covered field three miles east of here. Witnesses said the motor apparently failed.

SNOW AND COLD WEATHER LISTED FOR MIDDLEWEST

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(UP)—A cold wave from the Arctic blanketed the nation from the Rockies to the Alleghenies today and forced temperatures in many cities down to the near-zero mark.

Snow flurries were forecast for the Plains states and the lower Missouri valley and southern portions of Illinois and Missouri. A light snow was reported last night over New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and most of New England.

Government Forecaster J. R. Lloyd predicted colder weather tomorrow for the western and south-central states. The present cold wave extends as far south as the Rio Grande valley, he said.

Moorhead, Minn., was the coldest spot on the country's weather-map last night with a reading of eight degrees above zero. Devil's Lake, N. D., and Huron, S. D., reported a 10-degree reading while Yuma, Ariz., went to a high extreme with a temperature of 80 degrees. Other representative temperatures:

Miami, 50; Louisville, 29; Chicago 15; Charles City, Ia., 14; Los Angeles, Cal., 70; Des Moines, 13; and Pittsburgh, 23.

Mrs. Amelia Hines, Madison Township, Is Dead At 85

Mrs. Amelia D. Hines, 85, widow of F. J. Hines, died Sunday at 7:15 p. m. while visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Laverne Warner, near Granville. Mrs. Hines had made her home with a son, Harley, Madison township.

Born Feb. 13, 1852 in Fairfield county, Mrs. Hines was a daughter of Adam and Anna May Roof Snyder. Her husband died in 1933.

Surviving are the following children, D. L. Hines, Harrisburg; Mrs. Warner, near Granville; H. C. Walnut township; R. F. Lake-wood; Mrs. Mary Oman, Richwood and Fred Hines, Fairfield county; a sister, Mrs. G. D. Griffith, Ashville; four brothers, M. L. S. Ger, Hilliard; Minor Snyder, Bexley; William Snyder, Lithopolis, and D. L. Snyder, Worthington.

Funeral arrangements in charge of E. F. Schlegel, Ashville, have not been completed.

William Slavens, N. & W. Brakeman, Crushed; Auto Crash Fatal

BY UNITED PRESS
Automobile accidents, a train mishap and monoxide gas poisoning accounted for at least 10 deaths in Ohio over the week end.

An automobile collision eight miles northwest of Washington C. H., caused the death of Miss Edith Gordon, 18, Jeffersonville, and injury to four others.

William A. Slavens, 49, Norfolk and Western railroad brakeman, was mortally injured when crushed between two freight cars in Columbus. His legs were crushed.

A coroner's verdict of accidental death by monoxide gas poisoning was returned in the death of George F. Williams, 43, Detroit, who was found in a parked car near Londonderry, Ohio.

John Lowry, 67, Alliance, was killed when struck by an automobile east of Alliance.

Thomas Kramer, 60, died of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile as he was crossing a Columbus street.

Auto Plunges Off Bridge

Two Negroes, Ulysses Reid and Nonella Moore, were killed when an automobile plunged from a bridge into a railroad yard in Cincinnati.

Harry Stroop, 71, Miamisburg, was fatally injured in an automobile collision in Dayton.

William Helling, 65, was killed in a traffic accident in Cincinnati. Charles Edwards, 54, Dayton, died of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile.

Icy streets and highways cut traffic to a minimum Saturday and Sunday.

Two accidents, in which no one was hurt, were investigated by city and county officers.

Two Autos Collide

Autos driven by Welter Bartholomew, Pontius Lane, and Mrs. Edna McGee, Chillicothe Route 2, were involved in a mishap on E. Main Street. Police said Bartholomew's car collided with the rear end of the auto driven by Mrs. McGee when she slowed down to stop at a residence.

A truck and trailer, driven by George R. Seaman, 29, of Lakeview, O., went into a ditch on Route 23 about eight miles north of Circleville, Saturday night. Deputy sheriffs reported the truck failed to make a curve.

SCREW REMOVED FROM OKLAHOMA YOUTH'S LUNGS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22—(UP)—A brass screw was taken from the lung of two-year-old Melvin Martin today and attaches at Jefferson hospital's bronchoscopic clinic said the Blackwell, Okla., boy's condition was "satisfactory."

A bronchoscope was inserted into the boy's lung and the screw was extracted through the tube. A congested condition in the bronchial tracts had not been eliminated when the operation was performed, but attaches discounted danger of pneumonia.

Melvin was brought here from Wichita, Kans., when citizens contributed to a fund to finance the trip after physicians there were unable to extract the screw. The boy sucked the screw into his lung a week ago.

500 LABORERS LEAVE DETROIT AUTO FACTORY

24 Hours Of Concentrated Effort By Union Leader Successful

"ALL OVER," HE SAYS

Immediate Negotiations To Be Started

PONTIAC, Mich., Nov. 22—(UP)—Five hundred sit-down strikers in the closed plant of the Fisher Body corporation terminated their six-day strike today after Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers union, had pleaded with them for more than an hour to return to work.

A personal appeal by the youthful union head climaxed 24 hours of concentrated effort by high officials to break the strike. Martin went to the closed plant this morning after previous threats and promises had brought no response from the sit-downers.

As Martin left the plant, following a conference with strike leaders that lasted one hour and 20 minutes, he was followed by the first of the strikers.

"All Over, Boys"

"It's all over, boys," he told newspapermen waiting at the gates.

He started to tell reporters that the plant would be evacuated immediately, but his words were lost in the rush of the self-imprisoned strikers for the gates.

Almost at the moment that the strikers, some of them bearded and unkempt, moved out of the closed plant, Martin revealed his

JAPAN'S FORCES MOVING TOWARD CHINESE CAPITAL

SHANGHAI, Nov. 22—(UP)—The Japanese war machine marching on Nanking was reported in unconfirmed dispatches today to have captured the strategic city of Wushih, 100 miles southeast of the evacuated capital.

Wushih is a pivotal defense point north of Lake Taihu and if the reports of its capture are true, it would mean the collapse of the Wushih-Kiangyin Chinese defense line, the last important obstacle confronting the Japanese before Nanking.

Japanese warships and airplanes rained hundreds of bombs on Kiangyin in preparation for an attack. Chinese reports also said that Japanese warships bombarded Langshan, on the north bank of the Yangtze, halfway between the mouth of the Whangpoo river and Kiangyin. Military experts believed that the bombardment was in preparation for a mass movement against Kiangyin.

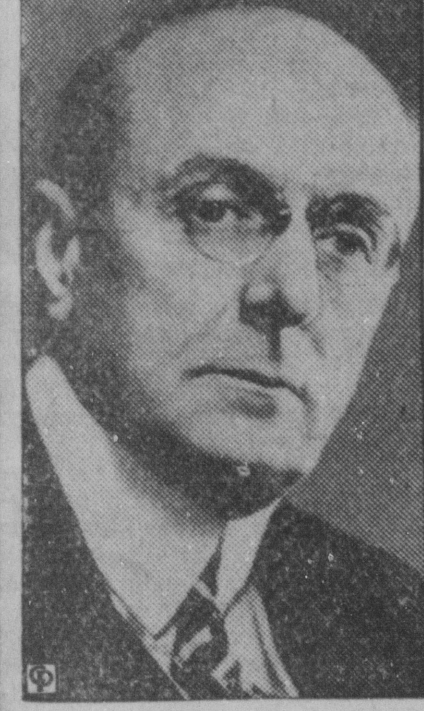

A Chinese spokesman asserted, meanwhile, that Japanese troops in armored boats which attempted to cross Lake Taihu for an attack on Chang-Hsing were repulsed with heavy losses.

COOK AND TITUS WILLS ADMITTED TO PROBATE

Two wills were admitted to probate Saturday by Judge C. C. Young. The will of Mrs. Sarah E. Cook, E. Franklin street, bequeaths all property to her husband, Charles E. Cook, and names him executor. The property is valued at $3,500.

Mrs. Gertrude Hillin, of Batavia, O., and Edwin Titus, of Flint, Mich., share equally the $1,488 estate of their father, Charles M. Titus, Circleville. The son is executor.

HOMER S. CUMMINGS

ROBERT H. JACKSON

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is rumored to be willing to accept the resignation of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings as soon as he makes a business tie up. Assistant Attorney General Robert Jackson, crusading head of the anti-trust division of the justice department, is mentioned as a probable successor. The president has been eager to get anti-monopoly prosecutions begun. Jackson also is eager, but Cummings has been lukewarm, according to Washington gossip.

Father Coughlin Silent After Vatican's Attack

ROYAL OAK, Mich., Nov. 22—(UP)—Father Charles E. Coughlin, exponent of new social and political philosophies to millions of radio listeners, remained silent today over a public rebuke for his utterances from Pope Pius XI.

Secluded at his famed "Shrine of the Little Flower," the radio priest, associates said, could not reply to the papal reproof because he had not been granted permission to speak by his superior, Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Coccagnani, apostolic delegate, revealed the Pope's condemnation of Father Coughlin in Washington Saturday night. It constituted approval of Archbishop Mooney's conduct in "correcting" the radio priest's recent criticisms of President Roosevelt. Such corrections, the papal pronouncement said, were "just and timely."

The chastisement from the Vatican centered on Coughlin's characterization, during a press interview on Oct. 5, of President Roosevelt's "personal stupidity" in appointing the then Senator Hugo Black of Alabama to the U. S. supreme court.

The archbishop of Detroit replied publicly to the Coughlin statement, expressing regret the famed radio priest had not had "prudent counsel" which would have kept Father Coughlin from using the unfortunate words, "personal stupidity to describe a recent official act of the President of the United States."

Although both priest and archbishop refrained from further comment after the Oct. 5th interview, the priest shortly divorced himself from all save his regular religious activities.

A scheduled series of 26 weekly broadcasts—the Sunday sermons which had raised him from the obscurity of a parish priest to international renown over a 12 year period—were abruptly cancelled.

Subsequently, the priest's attorney announced that Coughlin had disposed of his weekly newspaper, "Social Justice," to a Toledo, Ohio, syndicate and would henceforth not be associated with the publication.

Girl's "White Lie" Blamed For Sweetheart's Suicide

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(UP)—A "white lie" 15-year-old Loretta Harnyk told Warren Sinclair Stanley, 17, her sweetheart for four years, was blamed by investigators today for the youth's suicide.

"I told him I was going to have a baby," the girl said. "It wasn't true at all. I just wanted to make him happy."

Stanley, student at the exclusive Missouri military academy, Mexico, Mo., and son of a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, shot and killed himself early Sunday after the stolen car he drove was wrecked in suburban Berwyn during a police chase.

25 FARM UNITS TO BE OCCUPIED IN FEW WEEKS

Between 25 and 30 units of the Resettlement Administration will be completed in Pickaway county. DORIS RECEIVES SECOND THIRD OF HER FORTUNE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 22—(UP)—Doris Duke Cromwell came into the second third of her $30,000,000 inheritance today—her 25th birthday—and clinched the title of "the richest girl in the world."

The birthday present, made possible by the trust fund set up for her by her father, the late James Buchanan (Buck) Duke, was estimated to be worth from $10,000,000 to $18,000,000. The tobacco heiress and her husband, James H. Cromwell, author and aspiring politician, planned no celebration save a quiet family gathering.

STATE'S PAROLE INQUIRY STARTS

250 Convicts May Appear; Duffy To Call Naylor's Wife To Testify

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—(UP)—With Col. Alfred Ballin, retired army officer of Columbus, as foreman of the grand jury, the state's investigation of charges of parole and pardon "buying" began here today.

Col. Ballin, a veteran of the Spanish-American and World wars and the regular army, was retired in 1932. He is president of the Ohio State boxing association and chairman of the Columbus boxing and wrestling commission.

The grand jury, composed of six women and nine men, was to meet today in the office of Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, who is conducting the parole investigation at the request of Governor Davey.

FRANK CLAY HURT IN FALL SUNDAY IN MAIN STREET

Frank Clay, 49, of 152 Pinckney street, was admitted to Berger hospital Sunday night after suffering a compound fracture of the left leg in a fall on E. Main street.

Clay was found lying in front of the Fitzpatrick Printery by Oscar Miller, of Columbus. He was carried to the Eagles' home, then removed to the hospital in the Rheinhart ambulance. Arrangements were being worked out Monday to have Clay, a World War veteran, removed to the veterans' hospital at Chillicothe.

Reports that Mr. Clay was struck by an auto were checked by the police department. Mr. Clay said he fell.

SEN. BORAH WINS BUS FIGHT WITH INTOXICATED MAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah, R. Ida., declined today to make a complaint against an intoxicated man whom he subdued with his fists aboard a bus.

The man annoyed Borah as the senator was en route to his apartment from the capitol. Borah warned him to "keep your hands off me," but the "drunk" persisted, he said.

"So I hit him," Borah said. "The man, whose name was not learned, got up in the aisle and came toward Borah and the senator swung again. The incident ended when the bus driver ordered the man off the bus."

SENATE STARTS FARM MEASURE DEBATE TUESDAY

Drive Of Insurgents May Wreck Roosevelt's Four-Point Plan

Garner, Barkley, Rayburn At White House

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(UP)—President Roosevelt conferred on the legislative situation today with Vice President John N. Garner, Senate Leader Alben W. Barkley and House Leader Sam Rayburn. The leaders met with the president in his White House quarters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(UP)—Administration leaders prepared today for a test of strength on farm and labor legislation that may determine the outcome of President Roosevelt's special session of congress.

Conflict over the farm and labor measures was expected soon to indicate whether Mr. Roosevelt may expect congress to act on his four-point legislative program before Christmas or whether the insurgent drive for immediate business aid which developed during the first week of idleness will endanger or wreck his proposals.

An administration-approved crop control bill designed to stabilize farm income and prevent agricultural scarcity was completed over the week-end by the senate agriculture committee. Debate will open tomorrow.

Wages-Hours in Doubt

In the house, where the farm measure is still in committee, an indication will be given Tuesday as to the fate of the second important special session legislation—the wages and hours bill. Outlook for the labor standards measure was not bright but administration leaders were ready to attempt to blast it out of a rules committee deadlock if Chairman John J. O'Connor, D. N. Y., cannot promise action tomorrow.

Congressional leaders believed that technical obstacles and their promises of tax revision in January had ended the rebel campaign.

GIRL STUDENT, 19, ADMITS KILLING CHILD LABOR DAY

MERCHANTVILLE, N. J., Nov. 22—(UP)—Authorities said that Mary Keenan O'Connor, 19-year-old physical education student at the exclusive Immaculate college in Philadelphia, confessed today that she killed a five year old child, Nancy Glenn, last Labor Day.

The daughter of a Philadelphia school teacher was arrested at the home of her wealthy paternal grandfather in Merchantville.

The child's body was found in a mud hole covered with tin sheeting near her suburban Philadelphia home in West Oak lane. Investigators at first believed she was the victim of a degenerate.

In the purported confession, which police said Miss O'Connor dictated but had not signed, the college girl told of striking Nancy in a fit of anger after the child annoyed her.

Miss O'Connor was lodged in Camden county prison on a homicide charge.

HILLIARDS-AUTOIST PUT IN JAIL AFTER ARREST

Oscar H. Adkins, 41, of Hilliards, O., Route 6, was committed to the county jail Monday by H. O. Eveland, justice of peace, after failing to pay a fine of $100 and costs imposed on a charge of driving when intoxicated.

Adkins was arrested Saturday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Robert Adkins and R. E. Armstrong on Route 23, just north of Circleville.

FIRST OF 12,000 MEN RETURN TO AKRON FACTORY

United Rubber Workers

Agreement

UNION TO HIT DAVEY

Governor's Calling Of Guard
Attacked

AKRON, Nov. 22 — (UP) — The first of 12,000 workers peaceably returned to work in two huge plants of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. today after members of the United Rubber Workers voted in mass meeting to accept a tentative settlement effected by the National Labor Relations board ending a sit-down strike which began at midnight Thursday.

The regular 6 a. m. shift, numbering 3,000, entered the plants without incident, Goodyear officials said.

Union officials announced that they would file charges today with the labor board against Gov. Martin L. Davey who had mobilized 2,000 national guardsmen to give protection to all Goodyear workers who wished to return to work despite the strike.

The sit down strikers filed from the plant Saturday after they had been informed that national guardsmen were mobilizing, presumably to oust them.

Authority Voted
Stanley Delinger, counsel for the union, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate, said that the U.R.W. local had voted him authority to file the charges against Davey on the grounds of "intimidation of unionists under section 10-B of the National Labor Relations act in the furtherance of his own selfish political ambitions."

The union vote to halt the strike was 1,492 to 822. Several hundred workers on the early shift went through the gates at midnight. Goodyear officials refused to comment on the settlement.

The agreement, details of which were not made public, was understood to provide:

1. Gradual return to work of 1,600 discharged men, to be based on the degree of business pickup. Their discharge had caused the strike.

2. Distribution of work throughout plant units on a proportionate basis, eliminating concentration of layoffs in any given group.

3. Recognition of workers' seniority in all divisions in possible future layoffs.

4. Guarantee that men of 10 years' service would not be discharged.

The sitdown strike began in the tire building divisions of the world's largest automobile tire manufacturers in protest against a mass layoff policy announced by the company. It spread throughout the two main plants and threw 12,000 men out of work. Union officials had requested the company to defer operation of the plan until Jan. 1.

Action Not Distributed

The strike was based specifically, however, on the claim that the discharges were ordered in the tire building division and not distributed throughout the plants. It was charged that by this process, tire builders with 10 or more years' service had been discharged while workers of less seniority in other units were retained.

The union membership voted to ratify the agreement after more than five hours of debate. James P. Miller, regional director of the N.L.R.B., was the link between the union and the management.

John D. House, president of the rubber workers local, said that results of the conference "again justifies the wisdom of the National Labor Relations act."

"Perhaps the greatest obstacle we faced," he said, "was the bullying and intimidating attitude adopted by Gov. Davey in ordering mobilization of national guardsmen to force open the plants after the sit-downers had peacefully vacated."

Three new hit tunes by Arthur Johnston and John Burke, creators of the hit "Pennies from Heaven," are included in the impressive list of new music expressly written for the Bing Crosby comedy "Double or Nothing" which is showing tonight and Tuesday at the Cliftona Theatre. All three are sung by Crosby and one is "played" by the "Sing Band," an aggregation of boys and girls who imitate musical instruments so closely that it is impossible to tell their music from melody supplied by a dance orchestra.

The new Johnston and Burke numbers are "The Moon Got in My Eyes," "All You Want to Do is Dance," and "It's the Natural Thing to Do." Some of these have already been heard over the radio and have been widely received.

SHERIFF, AIDES GUARD AGAINST THEFT OF STOCK

Gang Of Rustlers Invades
Ohio Counties, Taking Valuable Animals

ALL HIGHWAYS CHECKED

Big Truck Believed Used In Depredations

Members of the Pickaway county sheriff's department are co-operating with the departments of four central Ohio counties in a drive to round up a gang of livestock rustlers who have made a series of raids in recent weeks.

Although no thefts have been reported in Pickaway county, the department is making careful checks on county roads each night.

The marauders use a large truck, capable of taking heavy loads through fields and barn yards. Stock valued at several thousands of dollars has been stolen. The stock taken has been largely sheep and lambs, although calves, heifers, hogs and poultry have been reported missing.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff urges farmers to report any suspicious trucks noticed along county roads at night.

Theft of 60 fatted lambs from a flock of more than 300 was reported in Delaware county. The rustlers invaded a farm north of Cedarville, Green county, where they hauled away 68 lambs valued at $500. Sixty-seven lambs weighing 75 pounds each were stolen from a barn on a farm north of London, Madison county. Livestock valued at $1,000 has been stolen in Union county.

Gates have been removed and fences cut to permit the truck to enter farms where the thefts were made.

PRISONER'S WIFE

The wife of a prisoner in Sing Sing will answer the question, "Does absence make the heart grow fonder?" on the "Husbands and Wives" program Tuesday, Nov. 23.

This woman's husband has served only two years of a twenty-year sentence but she says she is happy waiting for him. Once a week she visits him in prison. A wife whose husband was missing for seven years after the war will take a negative stand on this same question during the broadcast over the NBC blue network at 8 p. m. (EST).

Sedley Brown and Allie Lowe Miles again bring members of the studio audience to the microphone in their "floor show" at the close of the broadcast when they get ad lib answers on the question: "Who gets the most out of life—husband or wife?"

AMECHE AMAZED

Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy can't get away from the jokes W. C. Fields hung on Charlie. Bergen has rented an office on the tenth floor of the Guaranty Bldg. in Hollywood. Don Ameche, walking along Hollywood Boulevard, decided to make a call on Bergen and McCarthy. He rode to the tenth floor, looked around for a sign but saw none. Down the hall, he passed a door marked "Termite Co.," and decided that was Bergen's disguise. He lunged through the door, but instead of finding McCarthy and Bergen behind a desk, he was greeted by an unsmiling, business-like man. "Excuse me," said Ameche. "I thought this was Charlie McCarthy's office." The stranger got the point all right, but explained that the Termite Co. had been on that floor for years. He found Charlie's right office later.

COUNTY TO BUY MATERIALS FOR W.P.A. PROJECT

36 WOMEN GET WORK

Many Needy Families Are Provided Clothing

County funds will be provided for the purchase of materials to continue the W.P.A. sewing project at 401 E. Main street, Circleville.

This decision was made by County Commissioners R. E. May, C. E. Wright and J. B. Keller when informed by W.P.A. officials of a change in regulations whereby the materials previously furnished by the work relief organization, in the future must be supplied by sponsors.

Thirty-six women are employed at the sewing center in sewing, book repair and adult education. Twenty-one of these recently were transferred to the sewing project with the temporary suspension of the renovation project.

No definite sum was set up by the commissioners for the purchase of W.P.A. sewing materials.

"We told the W.P.A. people we'd go along as far as possible to keep the project operating," said Wright, expressing the sentiment of the commissioners. "The sewing project has been of distinct value. Not only does it furnish employment for women and families who otherwise would have to seek direct relief, but the products of the project furnish clothes and other material for needy families."

The commissioners said some of the sewing material had been purchased by the county in recent months.

Heffner Liberal

Down in the neighborhood of our good friends Charles and Mrs. Heffner, there lives a family of exactly the right sort. Hunters tramp and tramp over the fields all day in search of a single skinny cottontail or a poor pheasant and find neither. Hungry and tired after the hunt, they report their bad luck to this kind neighborhood family and presto, two well-fatted chickens are presented to these two hunters to take home to the wife and kiddies. There are yet a few chickens left, and while the getting's good we'd advise our hunter friends to do their hunting in the Heffner neighborhood. The cupboard is not bare there.

This seed corn farm has given employment to quite a few of our people and several are employed there yet, and will be for some time. Around five or six thousand bushels of this seed will be made ready for market at this plant. The price, we understand, is $6 the bushel a reduction of $2 over last year.

ANOTHER JAILED FOR ROBBERY OF GOOD HOPE BANK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 — The Federal Bureau of Investigation Sunday announced the arrest of Carl Skinner, 25 years old, Cincinnati, charged with having robbed the Farmers Bank of Good Hope, Ohio.

Director J. Edgar Hoover said Pearl Tate also was taken into custody today after tear gas was used by Federal agents and Springfield, Ohio police to drive them from a farmhouse on property owned by Bert Cradler, near Vienna, Ohio.

The bureau said Skinner, William E. Roby, 29, Ashland, Ky., and Earl Holt, 26, Cincinnati, robbed the Good Hope bank Sept. 14, locked a woman employee in the vault, and escaped with $313 cash.

Roby and Skinner, the bureau said, later kidnaped Floyd A. Ivers, Cincinnati, transported him in his automobile across the Ohio river into Kentucky, robbed him of $70 and fled in his automobile.

The bureau said Holt was arrested in Ashland, Ky., Oct. 13, and confessed the bank robbery. Roby, the bureau said, was killed in a gun battle with Officer Jimmy Lane, of the Ashland, Ky., police department, who attempted to arrest him.

COURT BAILIFF VICTIM OF COLLEAGUES' JOKE

Robert Adkins, deputy sheriff and Common Pleas court bailiff, was the victim of a joke played by courthouse employees Saturday.

A sign warning persons entering the courtroom from the hallway of the new addition was posted. It read "Do Not Disturb, Court in Session."

Another sign reading "Do Not Disturb, Bailiff Asleep" was made and placed on the door. While court was not in session Saturday the second sign was placed on the door. Adkins could not understand all the laughter around the courtroom until he investigated and found the second sign.

THE BUILDING PROGRAM

THE only proposal for business revival and re-employment about which there is general agreement is that a big housing program would do it—providing good but inexpensive homes for working people. There is little agreement, though, about the method of getting it started.

For economical construction that would bring the finished homes within the means of people needing them, it may be desirable to reduce the prices of building materials and the day-wages of workers in the building crafts. The former might be accomplished by pressure, plus assurance of huge orders. The latter is more difficult.

Gen. Hugh Johnson tells how, when he was running the WPA in New York City, he was induced to offer building craftsmen a "security salary" instead of the usual day wages. The workmen would be assured of steady work for a year, at a wage rate which would be less per day than their regular scale, but it would pay more in a year than they had ever earned. The reaction was interesting. The workers' wives favored the plan. But the workers themselves turned it down, because they feared that the innovation would be used by the building industry to break down the whole wage system, without guarantees of steady employment. The distrust must be surmounted somehow before any such rational plan can be adopted.

It may be, as Johnson suggests, that the desired mass-production of housing can only be accomplished by the government itself. That is the way it started in England. A conservative government began subsidizing houses for low-income families on a huge scale. The people liked them, and eventually private enterprise stepped in to carry on the work and the government stepped out. That experiment is credited with producing the present prosperity in England.

BENEFITS OF GADDING ABOUT

IT'S funny about the discovery of America. Several people did it without planning to and without realizing what they had done. There was the Norse sea captain, Herjulfson, who was blown far out of his course in 986 A. D. and came quite unwillingly upon Newfoundland and Labrador. Columbus himself was looking for a new route to the Orient and only happened upon the New World because it blocked his course.

Then there is the name America, bestowed in honor of a man who didn't come over until five years after Columbus, and who seems to have been credited by early geographers with more than he actually accomplished.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

POLICY BREAKING DOWN

WASHINGTON—The New Deal's proud boast in the field of foreign affairs—with some justification—was the Roosevelt Good Neighbor policy in Latin America. But now that policy is up against stiff opposition.

It is facing a ring of dictatorships increasingly friendly to Franco, Mussolini, and Hitler; rapidly drifting away from democracy. Out of twenty Pan-American republics, all but five—Mexico, Panama, Colombia, Costa Rica and Venezuela—are complete or semi-dictatorships.

Some time ago, in explaining to a group of churchmen his motives for building a big navy, Roosevelt pointed out that with both Africa and Asia now completely colonized by modern nations, the only undeveloped area in the world was South America. He expressed the fear that sooner or later Germany and Italy might turn their eyes toward our southern neighbors.

This, he said, was one of the big reasons why he had built up the Navy. "I intend to stand by the Monroe Doctrine," he declared, "in its pristine purity."

PEACEFUL PENETRATION

Now, however, without either armies or navies, the two chief dictatorships of Europe—Germany and Italy—are increasing their prestige and power in South America, seriously undermining Roosevelt's Good Neighbor policy.

They are accomplishing this through several mediums, the most important being:

1. THE CONQUEST OF SPAIN. Latin America traditionally follows the mother country, and with a dictatorship virtually set up in Spain, our "Good Neighbors" are doing likewise.

For this the State Department has only itself to thank. Its career boys were sympathetic to Franco, imposed extreme embargoes against the Spanish Government contrary to all international precedent.

NOTE:—How closely Latin America follows Europe was indicated last week when the new dictatorship in Brazil took over, almost word for word, the Portuguese constitution. Portugal, a dictatorship, is the mother country of Brazil.

2. FORCED BARTER. Both Italy and Germany have refused to buy from Latin American countries, unless the latter bought equal amounts from them. This has given a big impetus to Nazi-Fascist trade, undercutting U. S. Exports despite the Hull treaties and despite the fact that this country is Latin America's best customer.

3. RADIO PROPAGANDA. Italy and Germany operate high-powered radio stations which pour propaganda daily into all Latin America. Spoken in Spanish and Portuguese, it has a large following.

4. NAVAL VESSELS. Because of low cost naval construction in Europe, many Latin American countries have ordered warships built abroad. Italy and England are the chief constructors.

It was to head off the foreign purchase of destroyers by Brazil that the State Department proposed to lease over-age U. S. destroyers to her or any South American government. Since Brazil became a dictatorship, this plan has been shelved.

World At A Glance

President Roosevelt seems to me to have made a great mistake in not delivering, in person, his message to congress at the opening of the lawmakers' current extra session.

It was read to the legislators by Clerk A. E. Chaffee of the house of representatives. Reading Clerk Chaffee is a competent elocutionist. He did a good job in his way. He enunciated clearly, was duly respectful of all punctuation marks, but it was obvious that all he was doing was to "follow copy." There was not any inspiration in his performance.

PERSONALITY LACKING

After the ceremony was over the first person I asked, "What did you think of it?" was an ardent New Dealer, a prominent member of the "little cabinet"—that is to say, a first assistant secretary. "The words were all right," he answered, in a disappointed tone, "but the presidential voice was lacking."

That was it, Congress (and, I believe, the whole country, over the radio) had been waiting breathlessly to be spell-bound by that message. As delivered by Reading Clerk Chaffee, it fell as an anti-climax. And it did not go over the radio.

NON-APPEARANCE PUZZLE

I have talked with a few New Dealers (let alone "antis") who deny that the message dealt in much but generalities. Broadly speaking, it was sound. Even the "antis" admit that. But did it recommend anything definite? The New Dealers themselves do not contend that it did so.

If "F.D." had done his own orating I have no doubt that his remarks would have been accepted, except by cavillers, as highly constructive.

Not, however, as expressed at second hand by Reading Clerk Chaffee. Why the president did not appear in person puzzles me—and many other folk. Possibly he underestimates the potency of his individual personality. Ordinarily one hardly would suppose so; he always has appeared to be pretty confident of himself. Still, it is difficult to guess otherwise. Or why did he make such an error of judgment at so critical a juncture?

STRADDLES

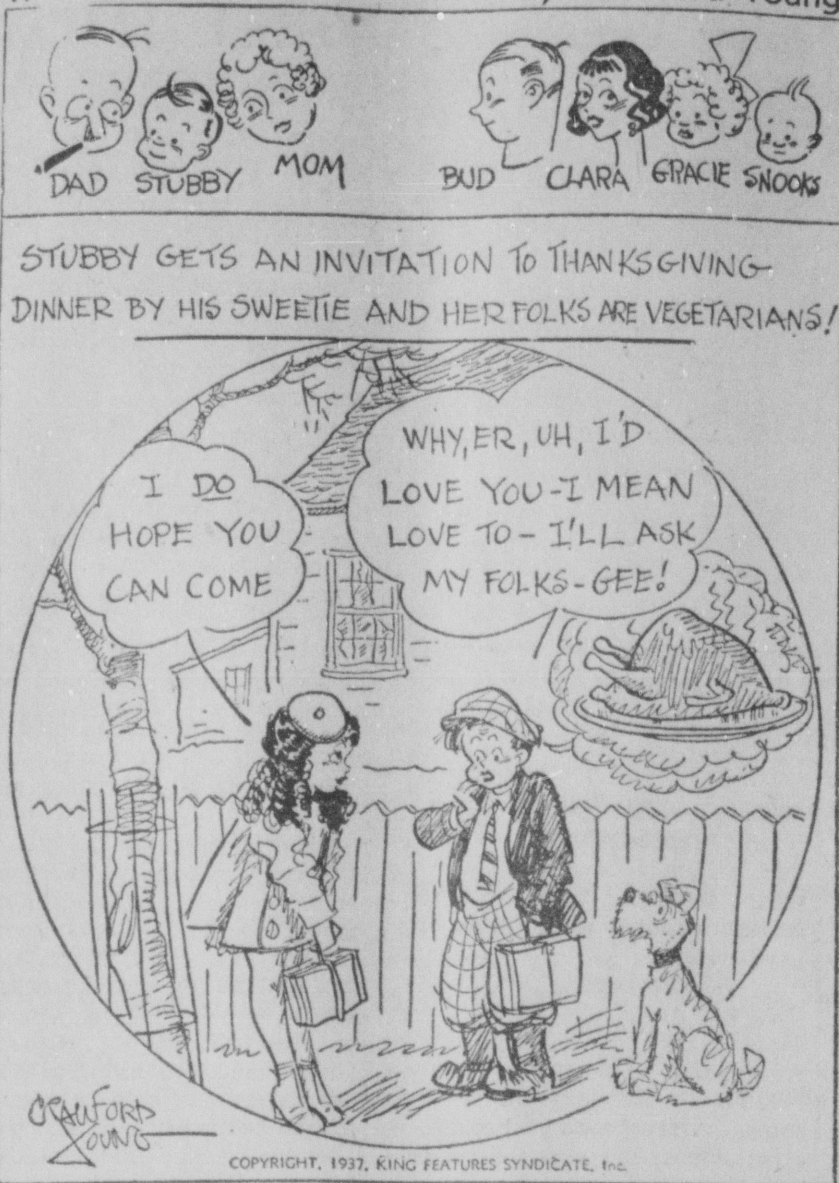

Maybe, at that, he calculated his policy.

He has been known as pretty ultra-liberal — so much so that business is uneasy and we have had a recession.

Some concessions to business had to be made. And yet, if concessions were made to business, there was the risk that labor and agriculture would be antagonized.

The presidential message had to straddle.

DIET AND HEALTH

Things That May Cause Disturbance in Taste

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
MY OPINION has been asked concerning a woman, aged 50, who complains of a disagreeable taste in the mouth. She doesn't enjoy any food or drink, and the tongue is unable to perceive any taste except the bad taste, which she has continuously. The tongue is slightly swollen and has some enlarged veins on the under side. This department under take to give advice on individual cases, but the general subject of disturbance of taste sensation can be considered in this connection.

Dr. Clendenning

In a woman of this age, it is possible that some change in the tongue due to anemia is the cause, and an examination of the blood would reveal this rapidly. Treatment of this type of case is very satisfactory with liver extract. It is probable the veins under the tongue have nothing to do with the case, as the correspondent admits they never would have been noticed if the taste sensation had not been prominent.

Nervous changes in what is known as the uncinate gyrus of the brain will produce both a disagreeable taste sensation and sensation of smell, but they usually go together. Probably the commonest causes of bad taste are imperfect cleansing of pockets in the oral cavity and sepsis somewhere, either in a tooth, or between teeth, or in the crypts of tonsils. Many drugs, especially nerve sedatives, if taken regularly, cause temporary unpleasant sense of taste. Obstruction of the salivary glands by calculi, which we noticed last week, is also a cause.

May Be Artificial Dentures

A patient of this age is pretty fortunate if she does not have some artificial dentures. Chemical and metallic tastes come from denture material or coloring products found in certain forms of dentures and often give a bad taste as well as a rubber mouth odor. Metal dentures have been found, in recent years, to produce symptoms due to electrogalvanism between dissimilar and variously alloyed metallic materials used in dentures or dental restorations. The taste of copper, zinc, silver, aluminum, mercury, nickel or phosphorus may occur as a result of electrolysis through the saliva between the metallic dental materials.

It is hardly possible that this is a symptom of pure nervousness, although pure nervousness can do nearly anything, but it must be evident how thorough an examination of many different parts would have to be undertaken to elucidate what appears to be so simple, although so disagreeable a condition. Doctors are supposed to be able to give slap-dash answers to questions about simple ailments of this kind when, as a matter of fact, they may cause more trouble and time and examinations by different specialists in order to find a solution than a far more serious and apparently complicated condition.

PEACOCK FEATHERS

READ THIS FIRST:
Jerry Chandler, son of a country doctor in modest circumstances, enters Yale, thanks to a wealthy uncle. Because of his commonplace background, he feels himself an outsider until he meets Lionel Clark, of St. Louis, in his senior year. Jerry finds that Lionel is a cousin of Mimi Le Brun, a girl he had admired several years before while visiting Washington with his uncle. Mimi, granddaughter of a late senator, is about to make her debut. Lionel tells him Jerry and Lionel are writing a play together. Lionel receives a letter from Mimi in which she writes about Olga, a young woman who married their grandfather, and his wealth, shortly before he died. Lionel invites Jerry to spend part of his vacation at his step-grandmother's camp in Maine. Jerry is elated as he anticipates meeting Mimi who will be there too. Taking to horses, after meeting Olga, as soon as they reach camp, Lionel leaves Jerry for a moment to join one of the other young people.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

MY HORSE and I came at last to an open space which was clear of trees. As we approached it, my eye was caught by something which lay directly in our path. It was a woman's hat, a little Alpine-peak thing of soft green felt, and stuck in the side, so that it slanted above the crown and caught the light in a gleam of iridescence, was a peacock's feather!

Cinderella's Prince was no surer that the glass slipper belonged to the maiden he sought than was I that the hat with the shining feather belonged to Mimi Le Brun. I felt she must be near yet though my eyes swept the open space and the shaded depths beyond, I could see no sign of her. I picked up the hat and had it in my right hand when a man appeared suddenly at my right, roiding a great tammy arack tree which had hidden him. He was on foot, was very tall, very dark, and wore riding clothes of irreproachable style and finish. He frowned when he saw me standing with the hat in my hand. "Give it to me," he said. "Miss Le Brun lost it."

I did not like his manner, but I handed him the hat, saying: "I am Jerry Chandler, Lionel Clark's guest. The rest of the party have ridden on."

He did not acknowledge my introduction of myself by giving me his own name. "We heard them go," he said, and his words confirmed my belief that Mimi was not far away.

I felt, however, that the presence of the dark man struck a jarring note in my romantic symphony. I would go away at once and leave her to him.

But he surprised me by handing the hat back to me. "You might as well take it to her," he said, "and I'll catch up with the rest."

He had hardly finished his sentence when he strode on to where his horse was hitched, and presently I heard the pounding of departing hoofs.

In a whirl of conflicting emotions I dismounted and went toward the place where the man had emerged. At first I saw no one; then suddenly I was aware of a bright banner flaming against the naked whiteness of a group of birches. I had to look twice, how often to discover that the bright banner was a woman's hair. Her riding clothes were of a rough gray cloth that melted into the background. She was leaning against one of the trees, and her back was toward me.

She was taller than I had seen her last, but her hair was tied with a black ribbon, just as it had been tied when as a child she had lunched with her grandfather in the senate restaurant.

A twig snapped under my feet, and without turning she said, "I told you not to come back, Andy."

"It is not—Andy."

She flung herself around and

"So you are Jerry?"

looked at me, and it was then I saw she had been crying.

"Who are you?" she demanded.

"Jerry Chandler."

"Lionel's friend?"

"Yes. I found your hat, and the man who came out of the woods said you were here."

"Andy Fuller—" She hesitated, but confessed the truth. "We were having a peach of a quarrel. I told him to go away and not to come back."

I just stood looking at her. It seemed to me incredible that I had met her at last, lovelier than in all my dreams of her, in spite of the tears which stained her cheeks.

"I always cry when I am angry," she said. "It is a silly thing to do, but Andy made me furious. And I told him what I thought of him. I think he was afraid to come back."

"I am sure he must have been," I told her; "he looked it."

We sat down on a log and she took her hat from me, then stood up as if to scrutinize me better. "So you are Jerry," she said. "Lion has told me a lot about you. How did you happen to come through here? Where's Lion?"

"He went on with the others. But this was all so wonderful that I wanted to be alone with it."

She looked at me with evident interest and returned to the log. "Yes," she said, "it is wonderful. You've never been here before?"

I smiled down at her. "I've never been anywhere."

I surprised her, I think, by my honest confession. I surprised, indeed, myself.

"How interesting to know that you have it all before you!" "Well, it is." I was afraid to breathe lest I spoil the enchantment of the moment. It was almost impossible to believe that she was really there, so delicate, so fine.

"This isn't the first time I have seen you," I went on. "You were in the senate restaurant years ago, with your grandfather, and my uncle and I were eating lunch near you."

"How did you know who I was?"

"I asked my uncle, and he said you were Mimi Le Brun."

Her dark-irised eyes were shadowed. "It was the last time I had grandfather all to myself. The next year he married Olga."

She seemed to float away from me on a sea of memory. I brought her back.

"You had a peacock's feather in your hat then. Do you always wear them?"

"Oh—yes." She stood up. "We must be going or we shall be late for dinner." She lifted her face to me. "When I get back to the camp, will everybody know I have been crying?"

I had to admit, "They might."

"I'll wet my handkerchief in the pool and freshen up a bit."

"Let me wet mine."

I brought it back to her, and she had me hold a little mirror which she fished out of her pocket. She had, too, an infinitesimal powder-puff, and she touched her cheeks with it, and her nose and chin. Her own skin was rose-leaf, and she did not need any artificial aids, yet I must confess that the faint perfume of the powder, and her face so close to mine as I held the mirror, set my pulses pounding. She put on her hat, and we went together to where her horse was tied to a tree.

"What did you think," she asked, as we rode along, "when you found my hat?"

"I wondered how it came there. I thought there might have been an accident."

"There wasn't," dryly. "I threw it at Andy."

She made no further explanation, and there was silence for several moments, while I was consumed with curiosity as to what the dark man could have done that she should throw her hat at him.

The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith says his Sunday afternoon radio talks will combine the energy of a Billy Sunday revival, the sincerity of a William Jennings Bryan campaign and the soundness of Abraham Lincoln's Americanism. What, isn't the Rev. Gerald contributing anything, himself?

Poems That Live

"WHEN YOU ARE OLD"

After Pierre de Ronsard

When you are old and gray and full of sleep,
And nodding by the fire, take down this book,
And slowly read and dream of the soft look
Your eyes had once, and of their shadows deep;
How many loved your moments of glad grace,
And loved your beauty with love false or true;
But one man loved the pilgrim soul in you,
And loved the sorrows of your changing face.
And bending down beside the glowing bars
Murmur, a little sadly, how love fled;
And paced upon the mountains overhead
And hid his face amid a crowd of stars.

Eleanor Snyder Adds To Evening With Two Solos

A large number of friends of music in Circleville braved the snow and ice, Saturday evening, to attend the annual piano recital of the intermediate and advanced pupils of Miss Abbe Mills Clarke. The recital, which was held at Miss Clarke's home, W. Union street, was well received and appreciated. Miss Clarke was assisted by Eleanor Snyder, dramatic soprano, who sang two solos.

The program was well-balanced and interesting. All the pupils played numbers which were within their respective limitations of technique and interpretation, a feature which contributed largely to the success of their efforts.

Charles Groce will open the recital with "Country Gardens," by Grainger-Richter and "The Dervish Dancer," by Mattingly. His playing was characterized by the ease and assurance which he displayed and by his firm, round touch which was unusual in such a young pianist. Grant Carothers followed with two compositions by Robert Schumann, "Soldiers' March" and "The Happy Farmer". Both these tuneful pieces were played with great exactness of time and notes. "La Cinqtaine" by Gabriel-Marie and "Little Dutch Dance" by Marie Rebe, played by Polly Jane Kerns was next in line. This young student gave a careful and pianistic rendition of both her selections.

"Folk Dance" by Beethoven and "Russian Airs" by MacLellan, played by Roselyn Dreisbach, comprised the fourth group. Her numbers also showed the result of her study and interest. Marvonne Henness displayed an excellent sense of rhythm as she played with much spirit two compositions by Rebe, "The Bohemians" and "Mantilla". In the second number especially her exactness of rhythm showed to good effect.

A thoughtful musical interpretation was given by William Lutz to the lovely "Viennese Melody" by Kreisler-Williams and to a colorful piece by Rebe called "Castanets". The contrasting mood of the two numbers was brought out by changes in tempo and tone-color.

Following a short intermission, Miss Snyder sang with great beauty and ease of tone two compositions, the "Gavotte" from Mignon and "When I Have Sung My Songs" by Charles. Miss Clarke was her accompanist.

Marilyn Lutz followed with a very musical rendition of Mozart's "Minuet in E Flat" and "Spanish Dance" by Pennington. Her feeling for phrase and tone-color was especially evident in the first number which requires nicety of phrasing to be well-played.

Composure and authority were shown by both the next two pupils, Clifford Lewis Kerns and Bonita Hulse. "Majesty of the Deep" by Hamer was played with a firm bass and easy accompaniment in the treble part by Clifford Kerns and his knowledge of rhythms showed to good advantage in the well-known "Humoresque" by Dvorak. The piece by Heller, "Water Sprites" and "Scarf Dance" by Chaminade were given capable interpretation by Bonita Hulse.

A lovely musical interpretation of Brahms "Waltz in A Flat" by Joanne Conyers was next on the program. Her second piece was "German Dance" by Beethoven, which she played with a firm tone and considerable appreciation for the humor and grace of the score.

The last two numbers of the recital were, very fittingly, of the modern school of composition and their complicated rhythms and harmonies were completely conquered by Betty Jane Bach who played "Gavotte and Musette" by D'Albert and "Juba Dance" by Dett. Her technique was excellent showing especially in the rapid passages of octaves and thirds. Both pieces were finished in rendition, in technique, phrasing and style.

Washington Grange
Washington grange will meet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Washington school. The 4-H club will give the program.

Golden Wedding Anniversary
Mr. and Mrs. Arch Drake, of Stoutsville, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, Thanksgiving Day. The affair will be marked by a dinner at noon followed by open house in the afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Drake are the parents of seven living children, Miss Martha Drake and Mrs. Herbert Rabold, of Columbus; Mrs. C. Davis, of Jackson; C. J. Drake, of Bremen; F. H. Drake, of Stoutsville and Mrs. William Burgoon and Mrs. H. B. Conrad, of Circleville.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Party
Miss Mary Dunlap, Kingston, who is president of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, Ohio State university chapter, is entertaining her mother Mrs. Renick Dunlap in Columbus.

Mrs. Dunlap is a member of the sorority's Mother's club, which is sponsoring a card party Monday Dec. 6, at the governor's mansion, Columbus, and she is spending some time in Columbus assisting with plans for the affair.

Dinner Guests
Mr. and Mrs. John Dreisbach, of Pickaway township, entertained at dinner Sunday at their home. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach and daughter, Eleanor, Mrs. Eva Dreisbach and Mrs. Fred Newhouse, of Circleville and Mrs. Hazel Riggins, of Pueblo, Col.

Mr. and Mrs. White Hosts
Mr. and Mrs. Clyde White, of W. Mill street, were hosts at a dinner Saturday at their home following a day of hunting. Yellow and white carnations centered the table where the guests were seated for the bountiful dinner.

Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller and daughters, Eleanor and Marjorie and Marvin Miller, of Crawfins; Mrs. Thomas Graham and daughter, Viola, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schaeffer, of Lancaster, and the hosts and their family.

Edwards-Street
Mrs. Russell Street, 104 N. Wayne avenue, Columbus, announces the marriage of her daughter, Pauline, to Mr. Harold Edwards, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards, of Laurelville. The ceremony took place in Greenup, Ky., Wednesday, Nov. 10. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards will make their home in Columbus.

Zimmerman-Bratton
Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Bernice L. Bratton daughter of Mrs. F. R. Bratton, of Columbus to Mr. Leo S. Zimmerman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Zimmerman, of Columbus, which took place in Circleville on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26, 1936. Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman are making their home at 1711 Summit street, Columbus.

Birthday Party
Honoring Mrs. M. W. Skinner of E. Union street, on her birthday anniversary, Mrs. C. E. Boyer and Mr. Skinner entertained a group of friends at an evening party. Games were the planned diversions of the evening and a delightful lunch was served at the close. Many attractive gifts were received by the honor guest, Mrs. Leroy Garrett and Mrs. Russell Radcliff were assisting hostesses.

Among those enjoying the pleasant affair were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lane, of Kingston; Miss Virginia Clark, of Williamsport; Mr. Simon, of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. John Hanley, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Radcliff, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dewey, Carrie Ross Skinner, Mrs. Boyer of Circleville and Mr. and Mrs. Skinner and family, of the home.

Mr. Hunsicker Honored
Mr. C. K. Hunsicker entertained at a family dinner, Sunday, at her home in W. Union street, honoring Mr. Hunsicker on his birthday anniversary.

Covers were placed for Mr. Hunsicker's sister, Mrs. William G. Fisher, of Wilmington, and the members of the Hunsicker family of the Williamsport community.

Pomona Grange
Approximately 175 grangers accepted the hospitality of Salt Creek Valley grange, Saturday, when it was host to Pomona grange, the county organization. The business session was held at 10 o'clock and several legislative problems were discussed. Kenneth Wertman, master of Pomona grange, was in charge of the meeting. Lunch was served at noon.

During the afternoon meeting, the following candidates were obligated in the fifth degree, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery, Mr. and Mrs. James Reichelderfer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, of Salt Creek Valley grange; Miss Ruby Harris, Washington grange and Loring Hill, of Logan Elm grange.

The degree of Pomona will be conferred on a class of candidates, Thursday evening, Dec. 2, at Pickaway school building.

The afternoon program was in charge of Mrs. Turney Glick, lecturer of Pomona grange, and was made up of numbers planned by the lecturers of the county granges. The program was based on the theme, "Thanksgiving." After group singing, Miss Harriet Weaver, lecturer of Nebraska grange, read the President's Thanksgiving proclamation and a story, "Four Turkeys' Thanksgiving." "How Thanksgiving became a National Holiday" was the title of a paper read by Mrs. Ira Scothorn, lecturer of Scioto Valley Grange. The next number was a violin duet by Mrs. Jessie Hill, lecturer of Scioto grange, and daughter, Virginia, accompanied at the piano by Doris Hill. Miss Mary

Brehmer Chrysanthemum Show Proves Attractive

By LYALL CRYDER
An "orchid to a florist!" This may seem an unusual selection but it is proper and fitting that high tribute should be paid to one who has attained national and international honors in his chosen field. Robert L. Brehmer, Circleville florist, has become "tops" in many lines of his work and deserves credit for his splendid achievements as a grower and exhibitor.

For the pleasure of this community, Mr. Brehmer has staged for the last three days a Chrysanthemum Show.

In his office display room, many artistic arrangements using the various types of chrysanthemums are to be found. The glass fronted refrigerator contained an interesting display of "mums" arranged against a background of cellophane, representing a waterfall, and unique corsages fashioned to please the most discriminating recipient were shown in classy cellophane cases.

Varieties in Pots
In the front greenhouse, many varieties of the featured flower were shown in pots, from the tiny buttons to the large single blossoms. After passing through another house, the main chrysanthemum house is reached. For the convenience of the visitors, stiles have been erected in two of the aisles so that the tops of the gorgeous flowers may be seen from the front and the back of the house as the visitors mount these elevations. All the large varieties are displayed in one section. Other growing frames hold the smaller pom-poms and the newer varieties which have been added the last year or so.

Visiting the office and assembly room, the different varieties which are at the cutting season are found displayed and for information and convenience are labeled. Mr. Brehmer is cutting 31 varieties at this time, many more to be ready this week. "Wee Dot" is the tiny blossomed variety, and the yellow and white "Turners" are largest ones shown. There are 1,500 varieties of the flower and at the present time, Mr. Brehmer is growing 80.

Quite interesting are the Japanese type flowers, one called "Fuji," being a pale lavender cluster, the petals thread like in their delicate beauty. The Japanese, according to Mr. Brehmer, cultivate these with such care that the petals threads reach the length of 14 inches and have to be supported with tiny rests. "Golden Feather" is also unusual, the petals of this variety being perfect quills. "Astroid" is the name of a Korean variety. All large types are spoken of as "Standards". Others are known as the Daisy, Thread, Button and Anemone types. The "Standards" are sold by the blossom and the other types which have been disbudded are sold the same way.

Sold by Weight
An interesting fact was made known that any of the button types not disbudded are sold by weight, a nine ounce bunch being the standard. Many of the chrysanthemums grown by Mr. Brehmer are of the show type as well as the commercial varieties. "The Masterpiece", an orchid creation, rightly named because of the perfection and symmetrical arrangement of the petals is one of the show flowers. The "Ohio Star", an anemone type, is yellow and is striking in its contrast to the other types. "Patricia Grace" is an outstanding orchid quill type. Each visitor is presented a choice "mum" after visiting the houses. Inclement weather conditions have made the attendance somewhat smaller than in other years, and for that reason the show will be extended several days. A glance at the register disclosed the fact that many persons from a distance have enjoyed the beauty and variety of the show as well as home town people.

Porter, lecturer of Salt Creek Valley grange continued the program with a reading, "The Old-fashioned Thanksgiving." Miss Glendah Dick represented Darbyville grange with the reading, "Thanksgiving." Loring Hill, lecturer of Logan Elm grange, played a piano selection, "Falling Waters". Mrs. M. M. Bowman, lecturer of Washington grange, presented the play, "Wanted, a Thanksgiving Turkey". Taking part in the play were Mrs. S. L. Warner, Mrs. R. C. Palm, Miss Dorothy Glick, Miss Ethyl May, Miss Ruby Harris and Miss Hulda Leist.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by the Rev. C. L. Thomas, of Nebraska grange. Washington grange will entertain the next regular meeting of Pomona in February.

OHIO BROADCAST SCHEDULED FOR BIG NBC HOOKUP

70 Stations Will Carry Program From Campus On Wednesday

STARTS AT 12:30 P. M.

Band, Glee Club, Addresses Are Prepared

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—Everything is in readiness for the curtain to be rung up at 12:30 p. m. EST on Wednesday, Nov. 24, for the big Ohio broadcast to be carried from the campus of the Ohio State university over 70 stations throughout the country. This announcement is made by R. C. Higgy, director of the university station, WOSU, where the broadcast will originate.

As one of the Land Grant College programs presented monthly by NBC from the campus of the land grant college or university in different states, the Ohio program will be broadcast by the stations which daily carry the National Farm and Home Hour. In Ohio, these stations include WLW at Cincinnati, WHKC Cleveland, and WSPD Toledo.

In announcing that the program is ready "to go on the air," Mr. Higgy says he believes it will interest not only those who live on farms and in rural communities, but also folk in towns and cities as well. The theme of the broadcast is to be how the college of agriculture and the school of home economics at the university and the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster have and are aiding in meeting changing conditions.

With the Ohio State University's band and a quartette from the University Men's Glee Club to provide the music on the hour's presentation, the millions hearing the broadcast will be greeted by George W. Rightmire, president of the university, and hear from Dean John F. Cunningham, H. C. Ramsower, director of the state agricultural extension service, Edmund Secrest, director of the state agricultural experiment station, and Miss Nellie Watts, assistant state home demonstration leader.

Scheduled also for brief contributions are an Ohio farmer, a farm homemaker, and students and faculty members at the university. The livestock and farm shop sounds that the microphone will probably pick up along with the broadcasts from the animal husbandry department's livestock arena and in the agricultural engineering building are expected to lend authentic farm color for the listeners.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU— BY BOB BURNS

It's bad enough to lose your money through crooked associates, but I think even greater than the loss of your money is the shattering of your confidence in human nature.

One day Aunt Puney came home from shopping and she found Uncle Chigger over in the corner with his face in his hands. He said "I'll never trust anybody again! Not long ago I signed some contracts for mining stocks and some contracts for oil stocks and then I endorsed a note for a friend and now they've all turned crooked and I'm completely wiped out!"

Aunt Puney turned pale and says "Well, I don't care about the money but they tell me when poverty comes through the door, love flies out the window and I want you to promise me that you'll always love me." Uncle Chigger thought a while and says "Well, I'll give you my word—but I won't sign anything!"

Friend of Presidents Found Dead in Home

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Nov. 22—(UP)—A coroner's jury will decide, probably today, the circumstances leading up to the mysterious and violent death of Howard Earl Coffin, nationally known industrialist and intimate friend of two presidents.

Coffin was found shot to death in his apartment in one of the several hundred Winter homes of northern millionaires on Sea Island in Brunswick Bay, Sunday. A single shot from his hunting rifle had penetrated his brain. The rifle was beside him.

All that was known was purely negative. Coffin could not have been slain. He was seen to enter the apartment after he had been downstairs to breakfast and the apartment was empty. The rifle was beside him in such a position as to show that the bullet had been fired by himself.

Sea island, a tropical paradise in the gulf off the Georgia coast, had been one of the chief preoccupations of Coffin's life, and he had played a leading part in its development as a Winter Haven for wealthy residents of the North. He had sold his large estate on a neighboring island, but continued to come here every Winter.

Found By Friend

Several weeks ago he arrived to be a guest in the home of his cousin, Alfred Jones. The Jones family was in New York, as was the second Mrs. Coffin. Yesterday morning J. D. Compton, general manager of the Sea Island development company, dropped in to discuss a deer hunt which they had planned for today.

He was shown in and there, on the floor, was Coffin, dead.

Servants said that Coffin had breakfasted a short while before Compton arrived. He had eaten heartily, appeared in excellent spirits. He went directly from the dining room to his apartment. The servants did not hear the shot. The fact that it was his hunting rifle which ended his life, suggested that he might have been cleaning it in preparation for today's hunt.

His island friends said that they had noticed that Coffin's health did not appear as good as it had been, but that there hadn't seemed to be anything seriously wrong with him. Though 64, he was active, always cheerful. So far as was known, he had had no financial difficulties and his happiness with his second wife, whom he married last June 1, was well known here. She was Gladys Baker, a newspaperwoman. She left New York immediately on receiving news of the tragedy and was due here today.

Compton was asked if he thought Coffin had accidentally shot himself.

"I cannot say it wasn't an accident," he said.

He said he was at a loss to explain what had happened.

"There was no one near the room and we just don't know," he declared.

Sea island is one of several small islands off the coast here. Unlike the others, it is connected to the mainland by a causeway. Eugene O'Neill, the playwright, once owned a home there and is supposed to have written several of his best plays while living in it. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., secretary of the treasury, and Sir Robert Borden, the Canadian government official, usually spent about two weeks there every Winter.

Used by Presidents

Coffin disposed of his own elaborate estate after the death of his first wife in 1932. It had been used as a Summer White House by his friends, former Presidents Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover. He was widely known and

OHIO AGRICULTURALIST WINS NATIONAL HONOR

COLUMBUS—Thirty-five years of service to Ohio agriculture has brought national recognition to Professor Charles S. Plumb, Ohio State University.

Professor Plumb, member of the animal husbandry faculty, was invited to Washington last week by the U. S. secretary of agriculture, for special ceremonies in his honor at the annual meeting of the Land Grant College Association. Plumb has been a member of the Ohio State faculty since 1902, having previously been in agricultural and experiment station work in the states of New York, Tennessee, and Indiana.

CO-EDS WEAR BIG COLLARS

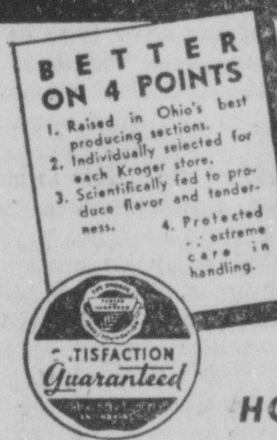

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UP)—Co-eds at the University of Missouri are going to the dogs—at least, as far as their clothes are concerned. Three girls the other day appeared on the campus wearing dog collars complete with brass studs, name plates and locks.

FEWER 'RIDING RODS' NOW
LORAIN, O. (UP)—Railroad detectives report there are fewer persons riding freight trains through Lorain than at any time since 1930. Authorities say pick-up in employment is the chief reason for the decrease.

CALIFORNIA PLAYERS FAVOR PITTSBURGH AS OPPONENT IN ROSE BOWL

SOUTHWEST'S BEST - - By Jack Sords

About This and That In Many Sports

NEWS FOR HI STUDENTS

Here's some news for high school pupils : : : Next Fall Ohio State university officials are planning two high school days : : : The first will be Oct. 1 when Indiana plays the Bucks; the second Oct. 22 when Chicago is the opponent : : : READ THIS: High school students from "A" to "L" cities—Aberdeen to Lyra—will attend the first game, and those from "M" to "Z" cities will see the second : : : An alphabetical, rather than geographical division, has been recommended by the state highway patrol as a better means of equalizing traffic

20 CORRECT; SIX INCORRECT

Saturday's predictions were right in some respects and wrong : : : The percentage was not much better than 76 with 28 games picked, 20 correct, six wrong, and two errors : : : The "wrong" were in picking Akron over Xavier, Dayton over Marshall, Duquesne over Marquette, Yale over Harvard, Navy over Princeton, and Rice over Texas Christian : : : All Big Ten games were named correctly except that in which Purdue turned back its most bitter rival, the Indiana team

11 POINTS MAR RECORD

Ohio State's gridgers had 10 points scored against them in all their Big Ten games, but they were sufficient to give Indiana a victory and Minnesota another championship : : : You have to give Coach Francis Schmidt a lot of credit for developing a winner after losing his varsity ends, some stellar linemen, a quarterback like Tippy Dye, and many other stars : : : Take out the Southern California game which the Bucks tossed away 12-13, and the Indiana game, in which Mike Kabealo's first period fumble cost a touchdown which might have changed

BEARS DEFEAT STANFORD, 13-0, TO WIN HONORS

Invitation To Be Issued To Western Team After Unblemished Season

Outcome of Few Remaining Games Awaited

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22—(UP)—California university's "wonder" team will be invited today to represent the West in the Rose Bowl, an honor which is accompanied by the Pacific Coast conference football title and the equivalent to a cash bonus of almost $100,000 in the gate receipts.

The invitation, fourth to be tendered the Golden Bears in the modern history of the New Year's day classic, will be accorded by the 10 conference members. Each institution, including California, will telegraph its vote to Dr. Hugh C. Willett, University of Southern California instructor who is conference president.

The bid will not become official until Dr. Willett counts the votes, but he said the outcome was a "foregone" conclusion.

Team Undeclared

California won the championship Saturday by defeating the runner-up, Stanford, 13-0. The Bears finished their schedule without defeat. They won six conference games and tied one, a 0-0 deadlock with Washington.

As the Bears were voted in, speculation on the choice of an "eastern" opponent was rife. Two statements tended to clarify slightly the conflicting rumors.

1. Several team members, among them Bob Herwig and Sam Chapman, disclosed that an informal straw ballot taken among several of the varsity players indicated a preference for Pittsburgh. A year ago a poll of the Washington players indicated a similar preference and the Panthers were invited.

2. Indication that the Bear officials will withhold their selection until next week, apparently to await developments of the western and southern fronts, where the supposed big three—Pitt, Alabama and Fordham—complete their schedules. Alabama meets Vanderbilt, another eligible, at Nashville, Tenn., Thursday; Pitt meets Duke at Durham, N. C., Saturday; Fordham plays N. Y. U. in New York Saturday.

Dartmouth Possible

Of the other aspirants, Dartmouth, lone undefeated ivy college, has ended its season as Lafayette; Holy Cross meets Boston College and Villanova comes here to play Loyola. Yale apparently was eliminated by the Harvard upset Saturday.

place in the standings. Illinois was eighth, Chicago ninth and Iowa finished at the bottom of the heap.

Minnesota earned its first undisputed title since 1934 against Wisconsin Saturday, 13 to 6. The Gophers scored in the first period and kicked the extra point that decided the game. Wisconsin hung on grimly, scored on Howie Weiss' seven-yard run around left end but failed to convert. The Gophers settled their business with another long touchdown march in the final period.

Notre Dame Blocks Punt for Score

MORE than 40,000 hardy souls braved the icy temperature and a knife-like wind to watch Notre Dame and Northwestern in their annual football classic at Dyer stadium in Evanston, Ill. Notre Dame won, 7 to 0, when Captain Sweeney caught a blocked punt and scored.

Action photo shows kick made by Jefferson (31) of Northwestern, which was blocked by A. Sweeney (seen behind Jefferson) and caught by Captain Sweeney (47) who went over for a touchdown. Extra point was kicked by Andy Pupils.

Vitt Certain He'll Direct Fighting '9

Must Overcome Board Of Directors; Others Go Down In Defeat

By HENRY McLEMORE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22—(UP)—I met the real condemned man of sports today, and he wasn't inside Alcatraz' grim walls.

He sat before a dining room table in his home in nearby Oakland, sparring lustily with a heaping helping of frankfurters and sauerkraut.

The man—and he was Oscar Vitt—actually appeared happy, despite the fact that when spring comes 'round he must assume the duty of managing the Cleveland baseball team.

I marvelled at the bravery of Vitt and his courage in hiding his rendezvous with disaster. Because that is what he has, Cleveland is the burial ground of baseball managers. Roger Peckinpaugh went there and left a beaten man. Walter Johnson went there and two years later ambled through the exit gate, thoroughly crushed.

Now Vitt has signed to manage the Indians and bare his scalp to the hatchets of the directors who run the team. Composed of bankers, railroad men, paint tycoons, and merchants, this board starts second guessing the manager at 7 a. m. (eastern standard time) and, without even a stop during the seventh inning stretch, continues its work until 7 a. m. the next day. Nothing a manager does suits the August board. If he calls the infield in the board of directors wags the players to get back. If he signals for a hit and run, the board of directors waves for a double steal. The board does not even approve of the counter-clockwise movement of the drinking fountain handle.

I asked Vitt if he knew all of this.

He said he did.

"Yes," he answered, "I have heard all about that. But sonny boy, Cleveland will play ball for me. If the boys don't like that, there will be a shake-up that will be a shake-up. There probably will be one, anyway. And Vitt won't be fired until two years are up, win, lose, or collapse. Because I've got a contract that calls for that long, and it's a civil contract, not a baseball one. But we are not going to lose or collapse. We are going to win. I'm a winning manager."

The man talked on in this vein

for another plate of frankfurters, or roughly half an hour. His enthusiasm is tremendous. It's enormous. No sophomore ever went to bat against his school's old rival with more spirit than Vitt shows for the Cleveland job.

His life long ambition has been to manage a big league club otherwise he hardly would have quit Newark, which wins pennants by 25 games, to take charge at Cleveland, baseball's Elba.

Vitt has definite ideas about Bob Feller, the sensational Iowa farm boy, with the blazing smoke ball.

"Feller won't be a Sunday pitcher with me in charge," Vitt said. "He'll pitch whenever I want him to. He's a good pitcher, but he's going to be a better one under me. Bob will pitch when Vitt says so. Nobody else will have anything to say about his work."

In other words, Oscar Vitt is going to boss the Cleveland ball club.

That will be a novelty, even if he finishes in last place. Even if he can't beat the other clubs, beating the board of directors will be no mean accomplishment.

ASHVILLE, SCIOTO COURT QUINTETS TANGLE TUESDAY

A basketball game that may go a long way toward deciding the Pickaway county league title will be played at Ashville Tuesday evening between Al Kauber's boys and the Scioto township varsity.

The game is moved up because of the Thanksgiving vacation.

Several other teams of the county will be in action Tuesday evening, and others will play Wednesday.

Ashville and Scioto have two of the finest teams in the county loop, and a victory would give one of them a big edge in the county chase.

BUCKEYE SCHEDULE FOR NEXT TWO YEARS LISTED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—Ohio State university's football schedule for the next two years has been announced.

Games for 1938 include: Oct. 1, Indiana; Oct. 8, Southern California; Oct. 15, at Northwestern; Oct. 22, Chicago; Oct. 29, at New York University; Nov. 5, Purdue; Nov. 12, at Illinois; Nov. 19, Michigan.

Contests scheduled for 1939: Oct. 7, Missouri; Oct. 14, Northwestern; Oct. 21, at Minnesota; Oct. 28, Cornell; Nov. 4, Indiana; Nov. 11, at Chicago; Nov. 18, Illinois; Nov. 25, at Michigan.

BUCKS TO PICK 1938 LEADER AT DINNER TONIGHT

Carl Kaplanoff Or Mike Kabealo Favored To Receive Honor

CO-CAPTAINS POSSIBLE

Schmidt Says Eleven At Peak Saturday

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—(UP)—An Ohio State team which missed being among the nation's top-ranked eleven by an extremely narrow margin will "huddle" for the final time here tonight when it meets to select a captain for 1938.

The selection will be made by lettermen at a meeting immediately preceding the annual "appreciation dinner" in honor of the Scarlet squad.

It appeared virtually certain that either Mike Kabealo, sterling halfback from Youngstown, or Carl Kaplanoff, bulky all-conference tackle, would be named the leader.

Numerous observers were inclined to believe the Buck players would again name co-captains with Kabealo and Kaplanoff sharing the honor as did Jim McDonald, Springfield, and Ralph Wolf, Youngstown, this year.

Michigan Trampled

The Bucks ended their campaign Saturday with a brilliant 21 to 0 victory over their traditional rival, Michigan. The win was the fourth in succession for Ohio over the Wolverines, and made the Bucks the third team in history to down Michigan four times in a row. The other teams to accomplish the feat were Minnesota and Michigan State.

Ohio was superior to Michigan in every department and dominated the game completely.

Although the Bucks piled up an imposing yardage total by running with the ball, all their touchdowns came through the air. Two of the markers were made by Dick Nardi, and the other by Jim Miller. The accurate aerial thrusts were made by Nick Wasyluk.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt, basking in the satisfaction that comes only with a triumph over Michigan and relieved of the pressure that every Buck coach feels immediately before a battle with the Wolverines, said he believed the Scarlet team reached its season's peak Saturday.

MARSHALL'S WIN MAY DISRUPT B.A. GRID CONFERENCE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—(UP)—The spark that may touch off a dynamite-laden situation in the Buckeye conference flashed through the league ranks today as Marshall college fondled the circuit's gridiron championship.

Marshall, a member of the Buckeye since 1933, captured its first football title over the weekend when it grabbed a narrow, but convincing, 7 to 0 victory from the University of Dayton.

The championship taken by Marshall will not be inscribed in the Buckeye's record book as a popular one. The team of Cam Henderson has been the butt of a season-long attack from two charter members of the compact little collegiate circuit, who looked with disfavor on the sudden rise to power of the West Virginians.

Even before Marshall took its title, one league member threatened not to renew gridiron relations with the Huntington team. Now that the Herd has the championship the situation will not be helped any.

The entire case, on which the conference's future depends, is expected to provide the fireworks of any early December session of the Buckeyes here.

While the Buckeye heads may halt the Marshall march when at a conference round-table, it could not be done this season on the gridiron. While on its title journey Marshall defeated Miami 7 to 0; Ohio Wesleyan 21 to 6; Cincinnati 28 to 0; Dayton 7 to 0; and tied Ohio U. 13 to 13.

SEA MOUNTIES' OUT OF ARCTIC AFTER 2 YEARS

Ice-Locked Area Patrolled By Nine Police And Dog Husky

LONG BOAT TO REMAIN

Work Devoted to Receiving Tax Payments

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 22—(UP)—After more than two years patrol duty in the Arctic Circle, the sturdy vessel St. Roch, floating contingent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, returned here carrying nine men and a black husky dog.

The battered 140-foot police boat will remain here until next June, when another patrol will sail for the Arctic regions.

Commander of the vessel during its long trip into the frozen north was Sgt. H. A. Larsen, considered one of the most efficient Arctic skippers.

The St. Roch left Vancouver in June, 1935. Since that time, the men aboard the ship—forsaking civilization—had seen many strange sights. The boat anchored at Cambridge Bay, west of King William Island, more than 3,000 miles from here.

Using the bay as a base, the police patrolled ice-bound areas for miles in every direction.

Police Collect Taxes

Work of the Mounties is devoted to collecting taxes, issuing hunting licenses and in various ways carrying into the regions of the north the laws of the Canadian government.

One of the men was away from the ship, doing patrol, for 45 days, but the men said that was unusual.

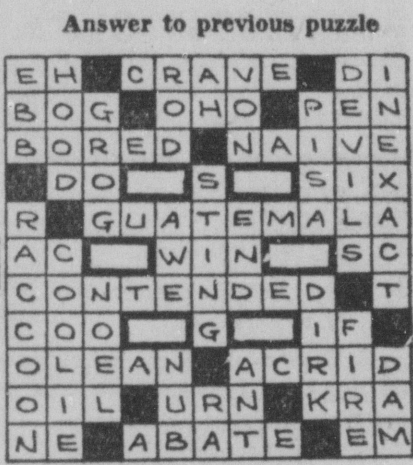

"Usual patrol duty is for a two weeks' period," police aboard the ship said.

"We like it up there," Sgt. J. W. Eddy, in command of the men, said.

"We had very little trouble. We found friendship and cooperation everywhere we went. In the winter we'd freeze in and prepare for a long siege.

"On our way outside we were held up a little by the ice breakup, coming through Beaufort Sea and Adm

Township Groups, Chosen At Meetings, Gather In Circleville

John Boggs, W. Union street, was re-elected chairman of the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation Assn., at the annual election held Monday in the Farm Bureau home.

Wilbur Brinker, Walnut township, was re-elected vice chairman, and G. H. Armstrong, Saltcreek township, was named the third member of the committee. Mr. Armstrong succeeds Marvin Steeley, of Washington township, as a member of the committee. Paul Matthes, county compliance agent under the federal farm program, is the secretary and treasurer of the organization. Chairman of the township committees elect the county officials.

Fourteen attended the election meeting. Approximately 45 members of the township committee attended a meeting following the election to receive instructions on the 1938 program. Surveys of Pickaway county farms are made by the township groups. Three men were elected recently in each township to serve as committee-men.

The survey to be conducted by the township committees, covering land productivity and the effects of erosion, will be made to establish farm bases for the 1938 soil conservation program. Farm surveys of previous years will be used for comparison in establishing the new bases.

Isaac E. Swackhammer, 72, Laurelville Native, Dies

Funeral services will be Tuesday at 1 p. m. for Isaac Ellsworth Swackhammer, 72, who died Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Tigner, in Brice, Franklin county. The rites will be conducted in Mt. Carmel church near Laurelville by the Rev. S. C. Elsea with burial in the adjoining cemetery by H. E. Deffenbaugh and Son.

Mr. Swackhammer, a lifelong resident of the Laurelville community, is survived by five children, Mrs. Tigner, Mrs. Mamie Peters, Stoutsville; Maxie, near Circleville; Albert and Rookford, of Laurelville, 19 grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

ANOTHER ATTACK ON BLACK HALTED BY ASSOCIATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(UP)—The supreme court rejected today the latest challenge to eligibility of Associate Justice Hugo L. Black. The new petition had asked that all questions relating to Black's right to sit on the high bench be settled "once and for all."

The challenge was contained in a petition filed last week by Robert Gray Taylor, Media, Pa., and Elizabeth L. Seymour, Salamanca, N. Y. They asked permission to file formal suit against President Roosevelt's only appointee to the tribunal.

They had filed a similar request earlier which was denied by the court last Monday. Their new plea raised several new questions not previously officially brought to the tribunal's attention.

Among these questions was that of whether Black had perjured himself in taking his jurist's oath because of the allegedly irrevocable character of the oath he took in becoming a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and whether he had been confirmed by the senate under false pretenses because he failed to reveal his one-time membership in the hooded order.

paign for action at the special session to revise or repeal the undistributed profits tax. But most legislative veterans believed that the administration would be fortunate if the farm bill alone is enacted before January.

Strong opposition to the wages-hours bill and the government reorganization bill appeared likely to prevent their enactment at the special session unless there is a speedy change in the outlook. Leaders believed there was a better chance for the national planning measure setting up modified "little TVA" regions if it is brought to debate.

Filibustering appeared to be as great an obstacle to the general program—excepting the farm bill—as the insurgent demands that congress drop the president's program to act at once for the encouragement of business.

Filibuster Goes On

Senate filibustering was scheduled to continue this afternoon against the anti-lynching bill. The obstructionists were assured of success as the farm bill will displace the measure tomorrow.

The senate has agreed to take up the anti-lynching bill again immediately after action on the crop control measure, but the prospects of a vote were dim.

WINDSOR'S SUIT AGAINST WRITER, PUBLISHER ENDED

LONDON, Nov. 22 — (UP) — The Duke of Windsor's libel suit against the author and publishers of the book, "Coronation Commentary," has been settled out of court, the lord chief justice of the Kings bench court announced today.

The lord chief justice denounced the author, Geoffrey Dennis, for writing a "foul, cruel libel" which "appeared almost to invite a thoroughly efficacious horsewhip."

He indicated that there might be criminal action against Dennis. The duke, through his solicitor, A. G. Allen, had filed the suit against William Heinemann, Ltd., the publishers, and Dennis, on April 27. He was annoyed with Dennis' statement that accused him of "muddling, fuddling and meddling" while on the throne.

The publishing house had sent a letter of apology to the duke, then at St. Wolfgang, Austria, the day before.

Today the lord chief justice consented to withdrawal of the record after a full and complete apology by the defendants who assumed damages and court costs.

Sir William Jowitt, representing the duke at today's proceedings announced that the defendants would pay a substantial sum in damage and costs which the duke would divide among various charities in which as the Prince of Wales and King, he had been interested.

EMMANUEL GRIFFEY, 79, VICTIM OF PARALYSIS

Emmanuel Griffey, 79, a Pickaway county native, died Monday at 8:15 a. m. at his home, 224 Randolph street, Ashville, after a three day illness of paralysis.

Mr. Griffey is survived by his widow, Maggie Williams Griffey, six children, Ms. Lily Armstrong and Mrs. Trece Holcomb, Columbus; Mrs. Nellie Frazier, Ashville; Chester, at home; Mrs. Mary Leonard, Duvall, and Mrs. Florence Clark, Circleville; 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; two brothers, Frank of Ashville and Denny of Etina, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Morris of Columbus.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Ashville Church of Christ with the Rev. James Hicks officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

Success Story

FROM messenger boy to president. That's the success story of John Holmes, of Chicago, now president of Swift & Co., the large packing firm. to be called as witnesses. Others also were to testify.

Mrs. Arch W. Naylor of Zanesville, wife of the man whose name figured in a newspaper expose of parole irregularities, was to be called as a witness.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, who is conducting the investigation at the request of Gov. Martin L. Davey, said that Leland S. Dougan, former parole board chairman who was asked to resign, would not be called before the grand jury.

The grand jury here was called chiefly for the purpose of examining records of banks, telephone and telegraph companies, and obtaining information which Duffy lacks power to obtain in any other way.

Grand juries will meet later in Cuyahoga, Lucas, Mahoning, Summit, Stark and other counties.

17 FIGHT AMANDA OPTION BALLOT IN COURT ACTION

LANCASTER, Nov. 22 — Protesting the recent local option election which approved prohibition of the sale of whiskey and beer, 17 residents of Amanda village have filed a petition in Common Pleas court alleging irregularities.

In the recent election the dyes collected 142 votes and their opponents, 139. The petition charges "divers persons not residents of Amanda village, Amanda township, Fairfield county, Ohio, were permitted to cast their ballots in said precinct, which ballots were received and tallied."

An informed source said the "divers persons" referred to school teachers, who allegedly spent their week-ends at their homes outside the township and heretofore had never participated in a township election.

The petition asks the election be declared null and void.

intention to attempt immediate negotiations over the grievances which precipitated the strike—the alleged lay off of almost 100 Fisher workers, and later the announced determination of the corporation to punish the four known "perpetrators" of the sit-down.

Last night he addressed 1,500 members of the Pontiac local, pleading with them to respect the union's contract with General Motors, won after last Spring's prolonged sit down strike.

"Wild cat strikes are plain anarchy and the few hundred sit-downers in the Fisher body plant might easily be the cause of a national strike."

He asked that all the men in the hall who agreed with his position, stand up. Only half the audience stood.

THREE CHARGED WITH ABDUCTION SEEK JURY TRIAL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 22 — (UP) — Three men accused of kidnaping and murder in connection with the death of Dr. James I. Seder, 79-year-old retired dry leader, asked for jury trial when arraigned before Judge H. Clay Ward here today. The men are Arnett A. Booth, 46; John Travis, 25, and Orville Adkins, 25.

Their trials were set to begin Dec. 6, with Booth's case coming first. The court appointed counsel for Booth today. Travis and Adkins already had retained counsel.

Dr. Seder died a week ago after he had been held captive in an abandoned coal mine for 10 days.

Bond Issues For School, Disposal Plant To Boost Figure

Budget Commission Opens Hearings Tuesday

Circleville faces an increase in tax rates for 1938 due to bond issues for the addition to the high school and Corwin street buildings and the municipal disposal plant.

Although definite figures cannot be established until the budget commission starts its hearings Tuesday, it is predicted that the rate may jump from $13.80 to approximately $14.50. Voters approved the bond issues outside the 10-mill limitation.

Darby Up, Too

Another district that may have an increase is Darby township where a school addition was constructed with funds obtained by a bond issue approved by voters.

The budget hearings open at 9 a. m. Tuesday in the offices of Forrest Short, county auditor. Members of the budget commission are Mr. Short, Robert Colville, county treasurer, and George E. Gerhardt, prosecutor.

The schedule follows: Nov. 23, 9 a. m., Circleville township, school district, city and schools; 10 a. m., Darby township, school; 11 a. m., Deer Creek township, school, Williamsport corporation; 1 p. m., Madison township, school; 2 p. m., Monroe township, school; Wednesday, Nov. 24, 9 a. m., Muhlenberg township, school, Darbyville school; 10 a. m., Salter Creek township, school, Tarleton corporation, Tarleton school; 1 p. m., Perry township, school, New Holland corporation, school; 2 p. m., Pickaway township, school; 3 p. m., Harrison township, school, Ashville corporation, school, South Bloomfield corporation; Friday, Nov. 26, 9 a. m., Wayne township, school; 10 a. m., Walnut township, school; 11 a. m., Washington township, school; 1 p. m., Scioto township, school, Commercial Point corporation.

TWO ARMY AIRMEN KILLED IN CRASH AS MOTOR FAILS

CAMPBELLSBURG, Ky., Nov. 22—(UP)—A faulty motor today was believed the cause of the plane crash in which Lieut. George Kneller, 37, and Capt. George Matthews, 40, army air corps reserve pilots, were killed late yesterday.

The officers, Kneller at the controls, were returning to their Louisville homes from a meeting of the Fifth Corps air reserves when the plane crashed into a snow-covered field three miles east of here. Witnesses said the motor apparently failed.

SNOW AND COLD WEATHER LISTED FOR MIDDLEWEST

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(UP)—A cold wave from the Arctic blanketed the nation from the Rockies to the Alleghenies today and forced temperatures in many cities down to the near-zero mark.

Snow flurries were forecast for the Plains states and the lower Missouri valley and southern portions of Illinois and Missouri. A light snow was reported last night over New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and most of New England.

Government Forecaster J. R. Lloyd predicted colder weather tomorrow for the western and south-central states. The present cold wave extends as far south as the Rio Grande valley, he said.

Moorhead, Minn., was the coldest spot on the country's weather map last night with a reading of eight degrees above zero. Devil's Lake, N. D., and Huron, S. D., reported a 10-degree reading while Yuma, Ariz., went to a high extreme with a temperature of 80 degrees. Other representative temperatures:

Miami, 50; Louisville, 29; Chicago 15; Charles City, Ia., 14; Los Angeles, Cal., 70; Des Moines, 13; and Pittsburgh, 23.

Funeral arrangements in charge of E. F. Schlegel, Ashville, have not been completed.

William Slavens, N. & W. Brakeman, Crushed; Auto Crash Fatal

BY UNITED PRESS
Automobile accidents, a train mishap and monoxide gas poisoning accounted for at least 10 deaths in Ohio over the week end.

An automobile collision eight miles northwest of Washington C. H., caused the death of Miss Edith Gordon, 18, Jeffersonville, and injury to four others.

William A. Slavens, 49, Norfolk and Western railroad brakeman, was mortally injured when crushed between two freight cars in Columbus. His legs were crushed.

A coroner's verdict of accidental death by monoxide gas poisoning was returned in the death of George F. Williams, 43, Detroit, who was found in a parked car near Londonderry, Ohio.

John Lowry, 67, Alliance, was killed when struck by an automobile east of Alliance.

Thomas Kramer, 60, died of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile as he was crossing a Columbus street.

Auto Plunges Off Bridge

Two Negroes, Ulysses Reid and Nonella Moore, were killed when an automobile plunged from a bridge into a railroad yard in Cincinnati.

Harry Stroop, 71, Miamisburg, was fatally injured in an automobile collision in Dayton.

William Helling, 65, was killed in a traffic accident in Cincinnati. Charles Edwards, 54, Dayton, died of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile.

Icy streets and highways cut traffic to a minimum Saturday and Sunday.

Two accidents, in which no one was hurt, were investigated by city and county officers.

Two Autos Collide

Autos driven by Welter Bartholomew, Pontius Lane, and Mrs. Edna McGee, Chillicothe Route 2, were involved in a mishap on E. Main Street. Police said Bartholomew's car collided with the rear end of the auto driven by Mrs. McGee when she slowed down to stop at a residence.

A truck and trailer, driven by George R. Seaman, 29, of Lakeview, O., went into a ditch on Route 23 about eight miles north of Circleville, Saturday night. Deputy sheriffs reported the truck failed to make a curve.

SCREW REMOVED FROM OKLAHOMA YOUTH'S LUNGS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22—(UP)—A brass screw was taken from the lung of two-year-old Melvin Martin today and attaches at Jefferson hospital's bronchoscopic clinic said the Blackwell, Okla., boy's condition was "satisfactory."

A bronchoscope was inserted into the boy's lung and the screw was extracted through the tube. A congested condition in the bronchial tracts had not been eliminated when the operation was performed, but attaches discounted danger of pneumonia.

Melvin was brought here from Wichita, Kans., when citizens contributed to a fund to finance the trip after physicians there were unable to extract the screw. The boy sucked the screw into his lung a week ago.

500 LABORERS LEAVE DETROIT AUTO FACTORY

24 Hours Of Concentrated Effort By Union Leader Successful

"ALL OVER," HE SAYS

Immediate Negotiations To Be Started

PONTIAC, Mich., Nov. 22—(UP)—Five hundred sit-down strikers in the closed plant of the Fisher Body corporation terminated their six-day strike today after Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers union, had pleaded with them for more than an hour to return to work.

A personal appeal by the youthful union head climaxed 24 hours of concentrated effort by high officials to break the strike. Martin went to the closed plant this morning after previous threats and promises had brought no response from the sit-downers.

As Martin left the plant, following a conference with strike leaders that lasted one hour and 20 minutes, he was followed by the first of the strikers.

"All Over, Boys"

"It's all over, boys," he told newspapermen waiting at the gates.

He started to tell reporters that the plant would be evacuated immediately, but his words were lost in the rush of the self-imprisoned strikers for the gates.

Almost at the moment that the strikers, some of them bearded and unkempt, moved out of the closed plant, Martin revealed his (Continued on Page Ten)

JAPAN'S FORCES MOVING TOWARD CHINESE CAPITAL

SHANGHAI, Nov. 22—(UP)—The Japanese war machine marching on Nanking was reported in unconfirmed dispatches today to have captured the strategic city of Wushih, 100 miles southeast of the evacuated capital.

Wushih is a pivotal defense point north of Lake Taihu and if the reports of its capture are true, it would mean the collapse of the Wushih-Kiangyin Chinese defense line, the last important obstacle confronting the Japanese before Nanking.

Japanese warships and airplanes rained hundreds of bombs on Kiangyin in preparation for an attack. Chinese reports also said that Japanese warships bombarded Langshan, on the north bank of the Yangtze, halfway between the mouth of the Whangpoo river and Kiangyin. Military experts believed that the bombardment was in preparation for a mass movement against Kiangyin.

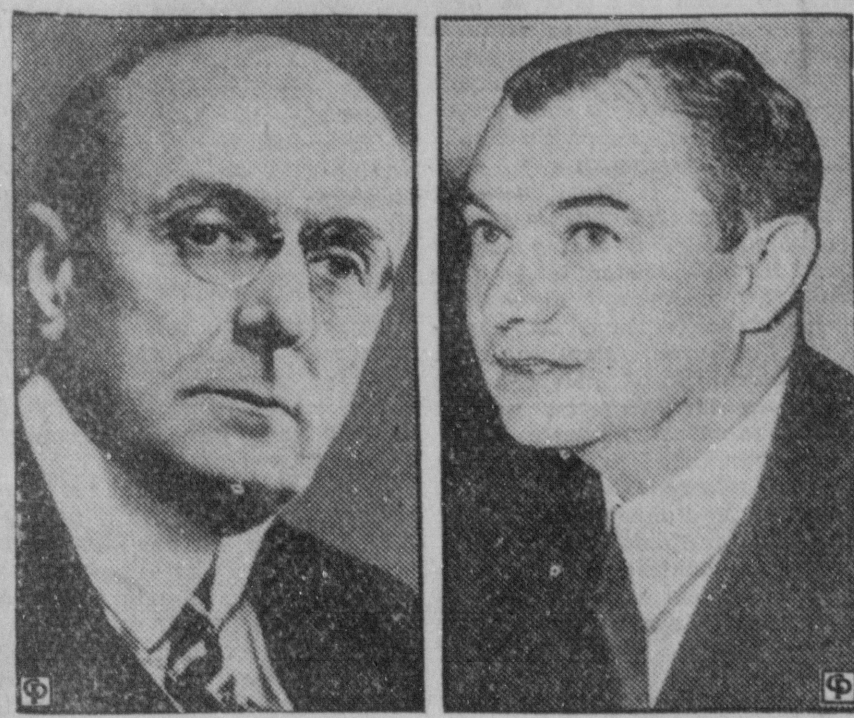

A Chinese spokesman asserted, meanwhile, that Japanese troops in armored boats which attempted to cross Lake Taihu for an attack on Chang-Hsing were repulsed with heavy losses.

The president has been eager to get anti-monopoly prosecutions begun. Jackson also is eager, but Cummings has been lukewarm, according to Washington gossip.

Father Coughlin Silent After Vatican's Attack

ROYAL OAK, Mich., Nov. 22—(UP)—Father Charles E. Coughlin, exponent of new social and political philosophies to millions of radio listeners, remained silent today over a public rebuke for his utterances from Pope Pius XI.

Secluded at his famed "Shrine of the Little Flower," the radio priest, associates said, could not reply to the papal reproof because he had not been granted permission to speak by his superior, Archbishop Edward Mooney.

Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate, revealed the Pope's condemnation of Father Coughlin in Washington Saturday night. It constituted approval of Archbishop Mooney's conduct in "correcting" the radio priest's recent criticisms of President Roosevelt. Such corrections, the papal pronouncement said, were "just and timely."

The chastisement from the Vatican centered on Coughlin's characterization, during a press interview on Oct. 5, of President Roosevelt's "personal stupidity" in appointing the then Senator Hugo Black of Alabama to the U. S. supreme court.

The archbishop of Detroit replied publicly to the Coughlin statement, expressing regret the famed radio priest had not had "prudent counsel," which would have kept Father Coughlin from using the unfortunate words, "personal stupidity to describe a recent official act of the President of the United States."

Although both priest and archbishop refrained from further comment after the Oct. 5th interview, the priest shortly divorced himself from all save his regular religious activities.

A scheduled series of 26 weekly broadcasts—the Sunday sermons which had raised him from the obscurity of a parish priest to international renown over a 12 year period—were abruptly cancelled. Subsequently, the priest's attorney announced that Coughlin had disposed of his weekly newspaper, "Social Justice," to a Toledo, Ohio, syndicate and would henceforth not be associated with the publication.

25 FARM UNITS TO BE OCCUPIED IN FEW WEEKS

Between 25 and 30 units of the Resettlement Administration will be completed in Pickaway and Ross counties and ready for occupancy within the next two weeks, Kenneth Browning, administrator, at Atlanta, said Monday.

Mr. Browning declared that the construction division was completing units as swiftly as possible and from present progress he believed the first group would be finished in two weeks.

Most of the units being completed are in Pickaway county. Ten are on the Immell tract, Wayne township, nine on the Hulst tract in Wayne and Jackson townships and five on the Prudential tract in Perry township. Five units are located on the Miller and Templin tracts in Ross county.

DORIS RECEIVES SECOND THIRD OF HER FORTUNE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 22—(UP)—Doris Duke Cromwell came into the second third of her $30,000,000 inheritance today—her 25th birthday—and clinched the title of "the richest girl in the world."

The birthday present, made possible by the trust fund set up for her by her father, the late James Buchanan (Buck) Duke, was estimated to be worth from $10,000,000 to $18,000,000. The tobacco heiress and her husband, James H. Cromwell, author and aspiring politician, planned no celebration save a quiet family gathering.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—(UP)—With Col. Alfred Ballin, retired army officer of Columbus, as foreman of the grand jury, the state's investigation of charges of parole and pardon "buying" began here today.

Col. Ballin, a veteran of the Spanish-American and World wars and the regular army, was retired in 1932. He is president of the Ohio State boxing association and chairman of the Columbus boxing and wrestling commission.

FRANK CLAY HURT IN FALL SUNDAY IN MAIN STREET

Frank Clay, 49, of 152 Pinckney street, was admitted to Berger hospital Sunday night after suffering a compound fracture of the left leg in a fall on E. Main street.

Clay was found lying in front of the Fitzpatrick Printery by Oscar Miller, of Columbus. He was carried to the Eagles' home, then removed to the hospital in the Rinehart ambulance. Arrangements were being worked out Monday to have Clay, a World War veteran, removed to the veterans' hospital at Chillicothe.

Reports that Mr. Clay was struck by an auto were checked by the police department. Mr. Clay said he fell.

SEN. BORAH WINS BUS FIGHT WITH INTOXICATED MAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah, R. Ida., declined today to make a complaint against an intoxicated man whom he subdued with his fists aboard a bus.

The man annoyed Borah as the senator was en route to his apartment from the capitol. Borah warned him to "keep your hands off me," but the "drunk" persisted, he said.

"So I hit him," Borah said. The man, whose name was not learned, got up in the aisle and came toward Borah and the senator swung again. The incident ended when the bus driver ordered the man off the bus.

SENATE STARTS FARM MEASURE DEBATE TUESDAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(UP)—President Roosevelt conferred on the legislative situation today with Vice President John N. Garner, Senate Leader Alben W. Barkley and House Leader Sam Rayburn. The leaders met with the president in his White House quarters.

Administration leaders prepared today for a test of strength on farm and labor legislation that may determine the outcome of President Roosevelt's special session of congress.

Conflict over the farm and labor measures was expected soon to indicate whether Mr. Roosevelt may expect congress to act on his four-point legislative program before Christmas or whether the insurgent drive for immediate business aid which developed during the first week of idleness will endanger or wreck his proposals.

An administration-approved crop control bill designed to stabilize farm income and prevent agricultural scarcity was completed over the week-end by the senate agriculture committee. Debate will open tomorrow.

Wages-Hours in Doubt

In the house, where the farm measure is still in committee, an indication will be given Tuesday as to the fate of the second important special session legislation—the wages and hours bill. Outlook for the labor standards measure was not bright but administration leaders were ready to attempt to blast it out of a rules committee deadlock if Chairman John J. O'Connor, D. N. Y., cannot promise action tomorrow.

Congressional leaders believed that technical obstacles and their promises of tax revision in January had ended the rebel campaign. (Continued on Page Ten)

GIRL STUDENT, 19, ADMITS KILLING CHILD LABOR DAY

MERCHANTVILLE, N. J., Nov. 22—(UP)—Authorities said that Mary Keenan O'Connor, 19-year-old physical education student at the exclusive Immaculata college in Philadelphia, confessed today that she killed a five year old child, Nancy Glenn, last Labor Day.

The daughter of a Philadelphia school teacher was arrested at the home of her wealthy paternal grandfather in Merchantville. The child's body was found in a mud hole covered with tin sheeting near her suburban Philadelphia home in West Oak lane. Investigators at first believed she was the victim of a degenerate.

In the purported confession, which police said Miss O'Connor dictated but had not signed, the college girl told of striking Nancy in a fit of anger after the child annoyed her.

Miss O'Connor was lodged in Camden county prison on a homicide charge.

HILLIARDS - AUTOIST PUT IN JAIL AFTER ARREST

Oscar H. Adkins, 41, of Hilliards, O., Route 8, was committed to the county jail Monday by H. O. Eveland, justice of peace, after failing to pay a fine of $100 and costs imposed on a charge of driving when intoxicated.

Adkins was arrested Saturday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff's Robert Adkins and R. E. Armstrong on Route 23, just north of Circleville.

United Rubber Workers Vote For Tentative Agreement

Governor's Calling Of Guard Attacked

AKRON, Nov. 22 — (UP) — The first of 12,000 workers peaceably returned to work in two huge plants of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. today after members of the United Rubber Workers voted in mass meeting to accept a tentative settlement effected by the National Labor Relations board ending a sit-down strike which began at midnight Thursday.

The regular 6 a. m. shift, numbering 3,000, entered the plants without incident, Goodyear officials said.

Union officials announced that they would file charges today with the labor board against Gov. Martin L. Davey who had mobilized 2,000 national guardsmen to give protection to all Goodyear workers who wished to return to work despite the strike.

The sit down strikers filed from the plant Saturday after they had been informed that national guardsmen were mobilizing, presumably to oust them.

Authority Voted

Stanley Delinger, counsel for the union, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate, said that the U.R.W. local had voted him authority to file the charges against Davey on the grounds of "intimidation of unionists under section 10-B of the National Labor Relations act in the furtherance of his own selfish political ambitions."

The union vote to halt the strike was 1,492 to 822. Several hundred workers on the early shift went through the gates at midnight. Goodyear officials refused to comment on the settlement.

The agreement, details of which were not made public, was understood to provide:

1. Gradual return to work of 1,600 discharged men, to be based on the degree of business pickup. Their discharge had caused the strike.

2. Distribution of work throughout plant units on a proportionate basis, eliminating concentration of layoffs in any given group.

3. Recognition of workers' seniority in all divisions in possible future layoffs.

4. Guarantee that men of 10 years' service would not be discharged.

The sit-down strike began in the tire building divisions of the world's largest automobile tire manufacturers in protest against a mass layoff policy announced by the company. It spread throughout the two main plants and threw 12,000 men out of work. Union officials had requested the company to defer operation of the plan until Jan. 1.

Action Not Distributed

The strike was based specifically, however, on the claim that the discharges were ordered in the tire building division and not distributed throughout the plants. It was charged that by this process, tire builders with 10 or more years' service had been discharged while workers of less seniority in other units were retained.

The union membership voted to ratify the agreement after more than five hours of debate. James P. Miller, regional director of the N.L.R.B., was the link between the union and the management.

John D. House, president of the rubber workers local, said that results of the conference "again justifies the wisdom of the National Labor Relations act."

"Perhaps the greatest obstacle we faced," he said, "was the bullying and intimidating attitude adopted by Gov. Davey in ordering mobilization of national guardsmen to force open the plants after the sit-downers had peacefully vacated."

Three new hit tunes by Arthur Johnston and John Burke, creators of the hit "Pennies from Heaven," are included in the impressive list of new music expressly written for the Bing Crosby comedy "Double or Nothing" which is showing tonight and Tuesday at the Cliftona Theatre. All three are sung by Crosby and one is "played" by the "Sing Band," an aggregation of boys and girls who imitate musical instruments so closely that it is impossible to tell their music from melody supplied by a dance orchestra.

The new Johnston and Burke numbers are "The Moon Got in My Eyes," "All You Want to Do is Dance," and "It's the Natural Thing to Do." Some of these have already been heard over the radio and have been widely received.

SHERIFF, AIDES GUARD AGAINST THEFT OF STOCK

Gang Of Rustlers Invades Ohio Counties, Taking Valuable Animals

Big Truck Believed Used In Depredations

Members of the Pickaway county sheriff's department are co-operating with the departments of four central Ohio counties in a drive to round up a gang of livestock rustlers who have made a series of raids in recent weeks.

Although no thefts have been reported in Pickaway county, the department is making careful checks on county roads each night.

The marauders use a large truck, capable of taking heavy loads through fields and barn yards. Stock valued at several thousands of dollars has been stolen. The stock taken has been largely sheep and lambs, although calves, heifers, hogs and poultry have been reported missing.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff urges farmers to report any suspicious trucks noticed along county roads at night.

Theft of 60 fatted lambs from a flock of more than 300 was reported in Delaware county. The rustlers invaded a farm north of Cedarville, Green county, where they hauled away 68 lambs valued at $500. Sixty-seven lambs weighing 75 pounds each were stolen from a barn on a farm north of London, Madison county. Livestock valued at $1,000 has been stolen in Union county.

Gates have been removed and fences cut to permit the truck to enter farms where the thefts were made.

PRISONER'S WIFE

The wife of a prisoner in Sing Sing will answer the question, "Does absence make the heart grow fonder?" on the "Husbands and Wives" program Tuesday, Nov. 23.

This woman's husband has served only two years of a twenty-year sentence but she says she is happy waiting for him. Once a week she visits him in prison. A wife whose husband was missing for seven years after the war will take a negative stand on this same question during the broadcast over the NBC blue network at 8 p. m. (EST.)

Sedley Brown and Allie Lowe Miles again bring members of the studio audience to the microphone in their "floor show" at the close of the broadcast when they get ad lib answers on the question: "Who gets the most out of life—husband or wife?"

AMECHE AMAZED

Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy can't get away from the jokes W. C. Fields hung on Charlie. Bergen has rented an office on the tenth floor of the Guaranty Bldg. in Hollywood. Don Ameche, walking along Hollywood Boulevard, decided to make a call on Bergen and McCarthy. He rode to the tenth floor, looked around for a sign but saw none. Down the hall, he passed a door marked "Termite Co." and decided that was Bergen's disguise. He lunged through the door, but instead of finding McCarthy and Bergen behind a desk, he was greeted by an unsmiling, business-like man. "Excuse me," said Ameche. "I thought this was Charlie McCarthy's office." The stranger got the point all right, but explained that the Termite Co. had been on that floor for years. He found Charlie's right office later.

THE BUILDING PROGRAM

THE only proposal for business revival and re-employment about which there is general agreement is—that a big housing program would do it—providing good but inexpensive homes for working people. There is little agreement, though, about the method of getting it started.

For economical construction that would bring the finished homes within the means of people needing them, it may be desirable to reduce the prices of building materials and the day-wages of workers in the building crafts. The former might be accomplished by pressure, plus assurance of huge orders. The latter is more difficult.

Gen. Hugh Johnson tells how, when he was running the WPA in New York City, he was induced to offer building craftsmen a "security salary" instead of the usual day wages. The workmen would be assured of steady work for a year, at a wage rate which would be less per day than their regular scale, but it would pay more in a year than they had ever earned. The reaction was interesting. The workers' wives favored the plan. But the workers themselves turned it down, because they feared that the innovation would be used by the building industry to break down the whole wage system, without guarantees of steady employment. The distrust must be surmounted somehow before any such rational plan can be adopted.

It may be, as Johnson suggests, that the desired mass-production of housing can only be accomplished by the government itself. That is the way it started in England. A conservative government began subsidizing houses for low-income families on a huge scale. The people liked them, and eventually private enterprise stepped in to carry on the work and the government stepped out. That experiment is credited with producing the present prosperity in England.

BENEFITS OF GADDING ABOUT

IT'S funny about the discovery of America. Several people did it without planning to and without realizing what they had done. There was the Norse sea captain, Herjulfson, who was blown far out of his course in 986 A. D. and came quite unwillingly upon Newfoundland and Labrador. Columbus himself was looking for a new route to the Orient and only happened upon the New World because it blocked his course.

Then there is the name America, bestowed in honor of a man who didn't come over until five years after Columbus, and who seems to have been credited by early geographers with more than he actually accomplished.

World At A Glance

President Roosevelt seems to me to have made a great mistake in not delivering, in person, his message to congress at the opening of the lawmakers' current extra session.

It was read to the legislators by Clerk A. E. Chaffee of the house of representatives.

Reading Clerk Chaffee is a competent elocutionist. He did a good job in its way. He enunciated clearly, was duly respectful of all punctuation marks, but it was obvious that all he was doing was to "follow copy." There was not any inspiration in his performance.

PERSONALITY LACKING

After the ceremony was over the first person I asked, "What did you think of it?" "What did you think of it?" was an ardent New Dealer, a prominent member of the "little cabinet"—that is to say, a first assistant secretary.

"The words were all right," he answered, in a disappointed tone, "but the presidential voice was lacking."

That was it. Congress (and, I believe, the whole country, over the radio) had been waiting breathlessly to be spell-bound by that message. As delivered by Reading Clerk Chaffee, it fell as an anti-climax. And it did not go out over the radio.

NON-APPEARANCE PUZZLE

I have talked with a few New Dealers (let alone "antis") who deny that the message dealt in

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

POLICY BREAKING DOWN

WASHINGTON—The New Deal's proud boast in the field of foreign affairs—with some justification—was the Roosevelt Good Neighbor policy in Latin America. But now that policy is up against stiff opposition.

It is facing a ring of dictatorships increasingly friendly to Franco, Mussolini, and Hitler; rapidly drifting away from democracy. Out of twenty Pan-American republics, all but five—Mexico, Panama, Colombia, Costa Rica and Venezuela—are complete or semi-dictatorships.

Some time ago, in explaining to a group of churchmen his motives for building a big navy, Roosevelt pointed out that with both Africa and Asia now completely colonized by modern nations, the only undeveloped area in the world was South America. He expressed the fear that sooner or later Germany and Italy might turn their eyes toward our southern neighbors.

This, he said, was one of the big reasons why he had built up the Navy. "I intend to stand by the Monroe Doctrine," he declared, "in its pristine purity."

PEACEFUL PENETRATION

Now, however, without either armies or navies, the two chief dictatorships of Europe—Germany and Italy—are increasing their prestige and power in South America, seriously undermining Roosevelt's Good Neighbor policy.

They are accomplishing this through several mediums, the most important being:

1. THE CONQUEST OF SPAIN. Latin America traditionally follows the mother country, and with a dictatorship virtually set up in Spain, our "Good Neighbors" are doing likewise.

For this the State Department has only itself to thank. Its career boys were sympathetic to Franco, imposed extreme embargoes against the Spanish Government contrary to all international precedent.

NOTE:—How closely Latin America follows Europe was indicated last week when the new dictatorship in Brazil took over, almost word for word, the Portuguese constitution. Portugal, a dictatorship, is the mother country of Brazil.

2. FORCED BARTER. Both Italy and Germany have refused to buy from Latin American countries, unless the latter bought equal amounts from them. This has given a big impetus to Nazi-Fascist trade, undercutting U. S. Exports despite the Hull treaties and despite the fact that this country is Latin America's best customer.

3. RADIO PROPAGANDA. Italy and Germany operate high-powered radio stations which pour propaganda daily into all Latin America. Spoken in Spanish and Portuguese, it has a large following.

4. NAVAL VESSELS. Because of low cost naval construction in Europe, many Latin American countries have ordered warships built abroad. Italy and England are the chief constructors.

It was to head off the foreign purchase of destroyers by Brazil that the State Department proposed to lease over-age U. S. destroyers to her or any South American government. Since Brazil became a dictatorship, this plan has been shelved.

World At A Glance

much but generalities. Broadly speaking, it was sound. Even the "antis" admit that. But did it recommend anything definite? The New Dealers themselves do not contend that it did so.

If "F.D." had done his own orating I have no doubt that his remarks would have been accepted, except by cavillers, as highly constructive.

Not, however, as expressed at second hand by Reading Clerk Chaffee.

Why the president did not appear in person puzzles me—and many other folk. Possibly he underestimates the potency of his individual personality. Ordinarily one hardly would suppose so; he always has appeared to be pretty confident of himself. Still, it is difficult to guess otherwise. Or why did he make such an error of judgment at so critical a juncture?

STRADDLES

Maybe, at that, he calculated his policy.

He has been known as pretty ultra-liberal — so much so that business is uneasy and we have had a recession.

Some concessions to business had to be made.

And yet, if concessions were made to business, there was the risk that labor and agriculture would be antagonized.

The presidential message had to straddle.

Things That May Cause Disturbance in Taste

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MY OPINION has been asked concerning a woman, aged 50, who complains of a disagreeable taste in the mouth. She doesn't enjoy any food or drink, and the tongue is unable to perceive any taste except the bad taste, which she has continuously. The tongue is slightly swollen and has some enlarged veins on the under side. This department does not undertake to give advice on individual cases, but the general subject of disturbance of taste sensation can be considered in this connection.

Dr. Clendenening

In a woman of this age, it is possible that some change in the tongue due to anemia is the cause, and an examination of the blood would reveal this rapidly. Treatment of this type of case is very satisfactory with liver extract. It is probable the veins under the tongue have nothing to do with the case, as the correspondent admits they never would have been noticed if the taste sensation had not been prominent.

Nervous changes in what is known as the uncinatus gyrus of the brain will produce both a disagreeable taste sensation and sensation of smell, but they usually go together.

Probably the commonest cause of bad taste are imperfect cleansing of pockets in the oral cavity and sepsis somewhere, either in a tooth, or between teeth, or in the crypts of tonsils. Many drugs, especially nerve sedatives, if taken regularly, cause temporary unpleasant sense of taste. Obstruction of the salivary glands by calculi, which we noticed last week, is also a cause.

May Be Artificial Dentures

A patient of this age is pretty fortunate if she does not have some artificial dentures. Chemical and metallic tastes come from denture material or coloring products found in certain forms of dentures and often give a bad taste as well as a rubber mouth odor. Metal dentures have been found, in recent years, to produce symptoms due to electrogalvanism between dissimilar and variously alloyed metallic materials used in dentures or dental restorations. The taste of copper, zinc, silver, aluminum, mercury, nickel or phosphorus may occur as a result of electrolysis through the saliva between the metallic dental materials.

It is hardly possible that this is a symptom of pure nervousness, although pure nervousness can do nearly anything, but it must be evident how thorough an examination of many different parts would have to be undertaken to elucidate what appears to be so simple, although so disagreeable a condition. Doctors are supposed to be able to give slap-dash answers to questions about simple ailments of this kind when, as a matter of fact, they may cause more trouble and time and examinations by different specialists in order to find a solution than a far more serious and apparently complicated condition.

PEACOCK FEATHERS

By Temple Bailey

READ THIS FIRST:

Jerry Chandler, son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, enters Yale, thanks to a wealthy uncle because of his commonplace background, he feels himself an outsider until he meets Lionel Clark, of St. Louis, in his senior year. Jerry finds that Lionel is a cousin of Mimi Le Brun, a girl he had admired several years before while visiting Washington with his uncle. Mimi, granddaughter of a late senator, is about to make her debut. Lionel tells him, Jerry and Lionel are writing a play together. Lionel receives a letter from Mimi in which she writes about Olga, a young woman who married their grandfather, and his death, shortly before he died. Lionel invites Jerry to spend part of his vacation at his step-grandmother's camp in Maine. Jerry is elated as he anticipates meeting Mimi who will be there too. Taking to horses, after meeting Olga, as soon as they reach camp, Lionel leaves Jerry for a moment to join one of the other young people.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

MY HORSE and I came at last to an open space which was clear of trees. As we approached it, my eye was caught by something which lay directly in our path. It was a woman's hat, a little Alpine-peaked thing of soft green felt, and stuck in the side, so that it slanted above the crown and caught the light in a gleam of iridescence, was a peacock's feather!

Cinderella's Prince was no surer that the glass slipper belonged to the maiden he sought than was I that the hat with the shining feather belonged to Mimi Le Brun. I felt she must be near yet though my eyes swept the open space and the shaded depths beyond, I could see no sign of her. I picked up the hat and had it in my right hand when a man appeared suddenly at my right, rounding a great tamarack tree which had hidden him. He was on foot, was very tall, very dark, and wore riding clothes of irreproachable style and finish. He frowned when he saw me standing with the hat in my hand. "Give it to me," he said. "Miss Le Brun lost it."

I did not like his manner, but I handed him the hat, saying: "I am Jerry Chandler, Lionel Clark's guest. The rest of the party have ridden on."

He did not acknowledge my introduction of myself by giving me his own name. "We heard them go," he said, and his words confirmed my belief that Mimi was not far away.

I felt, however, that the presence of the dark man struck a jarring note in my romantic sympathy. I would go away at once and leave her to him.

But he surprised me by handing the hat back to me. "You might as well take it to her," he said, "and I'll catch up with the rest." He had hardly finished his sentence when he strode on to where his horse was hitched, and presently I heard the pounding of departing hoofs.

In a whirl of conflicting emotions I dismounted and went toward the place where the man had emerged. At first I saw no one; then suddenly I was aware of a bright banner flaring against the naked whiteness of a group of birches. I had to look twice, however, to discover that the bright banner was a woman's hair. Her riding clothes were of a rough gray cloth that melted into the background. She was leaning against one of the trees, and her back was toward me.

She was taller than when I had seen her last, but her hair was tied with a black ribbon, just as it had been tied when as a child she had lunched with her grandfather in the senate restaurant.

A twig snapped under my feet, and without turning she said, "I told you not to come back, Andy."

"It is not—Andy."

She flung herself around and

"So you are Jerry?"

looked at me, and it was then I saw she had been crying.

"Who are you?" she demanded.

"Jerry Chandler."

"Lionel's friend?"

"Yes. I found your hat, and the man who came out of the woods said you were here."

"Andy Fuller—" She hesitated, but confessed the truth. "We were having a peach of a quarrel. I told him to go away and not to come back."

I just stood looking at her. It seemed to me incredible that I had met her at last, lovelier than in all my dreams of her, in spite of the tears which stained her cheeks.

"I always cry when I am angry," she said. "It is a silly thing to do, but Andy made me furious. And I told him what I thought of him. I think he was afraid to come back."

"I am sure he must have been," I told her. "He looked it."

We sat down on a log and she took her hat from me, then stood up as if to scrutinize me better. "So you are Jerry," she said. "Lion has told me a lot about you. How did you happen to come through here? Where's Lion?"

"He went on with the others. But this was all so wonderful that I wanted to be alone with it."

She looked at me with evident interest and returned to the log. "Yes," she said, "it is wonderful. You've never been here before?"

I smiled down at her. "I've never been anywhere."

I surprised her, I think, by my honest confession. I surprised, indeed, myself.

"How interesting to know that you have it all before you!"

"Well, it is." I was afraid to breathe lest I spoil the enchantment of the moment. It was almost impossible to believe that she was really there, so delicate, so fine.

"This isn't the first time I have seen you," I went on. "You were in the senate restaurant years ago, with your grandfather, and my uncle and I were eating lunch near you."

"How did you know who I was?"

"I asked my uncle, and he said you were Mimi Le Brun."

Her dark-irised eyes were shadowed. "It was the last time I had grandfather all to myself. The next year he married Olga."

She seemed to float away from me on a sea of memory. I brought her back.

"You had a peacock's feather in your hat then. Do you always wear them?"

"Oh—yes." She stood up. "We must be going or we shall be late for dinner." She lifted her face to me. "When I get back to the camp, will everybody know I have been crying?"

I had to admit, "They might."

"I'll wet my handkerchief in the pool and freshen up a bit."

"Let me wet mine."

I brought it back to her, and she had me hold a little mirror which she fished out of her pocket. She had, too, an infinitesimal powder-puff, and she touched her cheeks with it, and her nose and chin. Her own skin was rose-leaf, and she did not need any artificial aids, yet I must confess that the faint perfume of the powder, and her face so close to mine as I held the mirror, set my pulses pounding.

She put on her hat, and we went together to where her horse was tied to a tree.

"What did you think," she asked, as we rode along, "when you found my hat?"

"There wasn't," dryly. "I threw it at Andy."

She made no further explanation, and there was silence for several moments, while I was consumed with curiosity as to what the dark man could have done that she should throw her hat at him.

"WHEN YOU ARE OLD"

After Pierre de Ronsard

When you are old and gray and full of sleep,
And nodding by the fire, take down this book,
And slowly read and dream of the soft look
Your eyes had once, and of their shadows deep;
How many loved your moments of glad grace,
And loved your beauty with love false or true;
But one man loved the pilgrim soul in you,
And loved the sorrows of your changing face.
And bending down beside the glowing bars,
Murmur, a little sadly, how love fled;
And paced upon the mountains overhead
And hid his face amid a crowd of stars.

Eleanor Snyder Adds
To Evening With Two Solos

A large number of friends of music in Circleville braved the snow and ice, Saturday evening, to attend the annual piano recital of the intermediate and advanced pupils of Miss Abbe Mills Clarke. The recital, which was held at Miss Clarke's home, W. Union street, was well received and appreciated. Miss Clarke was assisted by Eleanor Snyder, dramatic soprano, who sang two solos.

The program was well-balanced and interesting. All the pupils played numbers which were within their respective limitations of technique and interpretation, a feature which contributed largely to the success of their efforts.

Charles Groce will open the recital with "Country Gardens," by Grainger-Richter and "The Dervish Dancer," by Mattingly. His playing was characterized by the ease and assurance which he displayed and by his firm, round touch which was unusual in such a young pianist. Grant Carothers followed with two compositions by Robert Schumann, "Soldiers' March" and "The Happy Farmer". Both these tuneful pieces were played with great exactness of time and notes. "La Cinqtaine" by Gabriel-Marie and "Little Dutch Dance" by Marie Rebe, played by Polly Jane Kerns was next in line. This young student gave a careful and pianistic rendition of both her selections.

"Folk Dance" by Beethoven and "Russian Airs" by MacLellan, played by Roselyn Dreisbach, comprised the fourth group. Her numbers also showed the result of her study and interest. Marvonne Henness displayed an excellent sense of rhythm as she played with much spirit two compositions by Rebe, "The Bohemians" and "Mantilla". In the second number especially her exactness of rhythm showed to good effect.

A thoughtful musical interpretation was given by William Lutz to the lovely "Viennese Melody" by Kreisler-Williams and to a colorful piece by Rebe called "Cassanets". The contrasting mood of the two numbers was brought out by changes in tempo and tone-color.

Following a short intermission, Miss Snyder sang with great beauty and ease of tone two compositions, the "Gavotte" from Mignon and "When I Have Sung My Songs" by Charles. Miss Clarke was her accompanist.

Marilyn Lutz followed with a very musical rendition of Mozart's "Minuet in E Flat" and "Spanish Dance" by Pennington. Her feeling for phrase and tone-color was especially evident in the first number which requires nicety of phrasing to be well-phrased.

Composure and authority were shown by both the next two pupils, Clifford Lewis Kerns and Bonita Huise. "Majesty of the Deep" by Hamer was played with a firm bass and easy accompaniment in the treble part by Clifford Kerns and his knowledge of rhythms showed to good advantage in the well-known "Humoreske" by Dvorak. The piece by Heller, "Water Sprites" and "Scarf Dance" by Chaminade were given capable interpretation by Bonita Huise.

A lovely musical interpretation of Brahms "Waltz in A Flat" by Joanne Conyers was next on the program. Her second piece was "German Dance" by Beethoven, which she played with a firm tone and considerable appreciation for the humor and grace of the score. The last two numbers of the recital were, very fittingly, of the

Approximately 175 grangers accepted the hospitality of Salt Creek Valley grange, Saturday, when it was host to Pomona grange, the county organization.
The business session was held at 10 o'clock and several legislative problems were discussed. Kenneth Wertman, master of Pomona grange, was in charge of the meeting. Lunch was served at noon.

During the afternoon meeting, the following candidates were obligated in the fifth degree, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery, Mr. and Mrs.
James Reichelderfer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, of Salt
Creek Valley grange; Miss Ruby
Harris, Washington grange and Loring Hill, of Logan Elm grange.

The degree of Pomona will be conferred on a class of candidates, Thursday evening, Dec. 2, at Pick-away school building.

The afternoon program was in charge of Mrs. Turney Glick, lecturer of Pomona grange, and was made up of numbers planned by the lecturers of the county granges. The program was based on the theme, "Thanksgiving." After group singing, Miss Harriet Weaver, lecturer of Nebraska grange, read the President's Thanksgiving proclamation and a story, "Four Turkeys' Thanksgiving." "How Thanksgiving became a National Holiday" was the title of a paper read by Mrs. Ira Scothorn, lecturer of Scioto Valley Grange.

The next number was a violin duet by Mrs. Jessie Hill, lecturer of Scioto grange, and daughter, Virginia, accompanied at the piano by Doris Hill. Miss Mary

Porter, lecturer of Salt Creek Valley grange continued the program with a reading, "The Old-fashioned Thanksgiving."

Miss Glendah Dick represented Darbyville grange with the reading, "Thanksgiving". Loring Hill, lecturer of Logan Elm grange, played a piano selection, "Falling Waters".

Mrs. M. M. Bowman, lecturer of Washington grange, presented the play, "Wanted, a Thanksgiving Turkey". Taking part in the play were Mrs. S. L. Warner, Mrs. R.
C. Palm, Miss Dorothy Glick, Miss
Ethyl May, Miss Ruby Harris and Miss Hulda Leist.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by the Rev. C. L. Thomas, of Nebraska grange. Washington grange will entertain the next regular meeting of Pomona in February.

Brehmer Chrysanthemum Show Proves Attractive

By LYALL CRYDER

An "orchid to a florist!" This may seem an unusual selection but it is proper and fitting that high tribute should be paid to one who has attained national and international honors in his chosen field. Robert L. Brehmer, Circleville florist, has become "tops" in many lines of his work and deserves credit for his splendid achievements as a grower and exhibitor.

For the pleasure of this community, Mr. Brehmer has staged for the last three days a Chrysanthemum Show.

In his office display room, many artistic arrangements using the various types of chrysanthemums are to be found. The glass fronted refrigerator contained an interesting display of "mums" arranged against a background of cellophane, representing a waterfall, and unique corsages fashioned to please the most discriminating recipient were shown in classy cellophane cases.

Varieties in Pots
In the front greenhouse, many varieties of the featured flower were shown in pots, from the tiny buttons to the large single blossoms. After passing through another house, the main chrysanthemum house is reached. For the convenience of the visitors, stiles have been erected in two of the aisles so that the tops of the gorgeous flowers may be seen from the front and the back of the house as the visitors mount these elevations. All the large varieties are displayed in one section. Other growing frames hold the smaller pom-poms and the newer varieties which have been added the last year or so.

Visiting the office and assembly room, the different varieties which are at the cutting season are found displayed and for information and convenience are labeled. Mr. Brehmer is cutting 31 varieties at this time, many more to be ready this week. "Wee Dot" is the tiny blossomed variety, and the yellow and white "Turners" are large ones shown. There are 1,500 varieties of the flower and at the present time, Mr. Brehmer is growing 80.

Quite interesting are the Japanese type flowers, one called "Fuji", being a pale lavender cluster, the petals thread like in their delicate beauty. The Japanese, according to Mr. Brehmer, cultivate these with such care that the petals reach the length of 14 inches and have to be supported with tiny rests. "Golden Feather" is also unusual, the petals of this variety being perfect quills. "Astroid" is the name of a Korean variety. All large types are spoken of as "Standards". Others are known as the Daisy, Thread, Button and Anemone types. The "Standards" are sold by the blossom and the other types which have been disbudded are sold the same way.

Sold by Weight
An interesting fact was made known that any of the button types not disbudded are sold by weight, a nine ounce bunch being the standard. Many of the chrysanthemums grown by Mr. Brehmer are of the show type as well as the commercial varieties.

"The Masterpiece", an orchid creation, rightly named because of the perfection and symmetrical arrangement of the petals is one of the show flowers. The "Ohio Star", an anemone type, is yellow and is striking in its contrast to the other types. "Patricia Grace" is an outstanding orchid quill type. Each visitor is presented a choice "mum" after visiting the houses. Inclement weather conditions have made the attendance somewhat smaller than in other years, and for that reason the show will be extended several days. A glance at the register disclosed the fact that many persons from a distance have enjoyed the beauty and variety of the show as well as home town people.

OHIO BROADCAST
BIG NBC HOOKUP

70 Stations Will Carry Program From Campus
On Wednesday

STARTS AT 12:30 P. M.

Band, Glee Club, Addresses Are Prepared

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—Everything is in readiness for the curtain to be rung up at 12:30 p. m.
EST on Wednesday, Nov. 24, for the big Ohio broadcast to be carried from the campus of the Ohio State university over 70 stations throughout the country. This announcement is made by R. C. Hig-gy, director of the university station, WOSU, where the broadcast will originate.

As one of the Land Grant College programs presented monthly by NBC from the campus of the land grant college or university in different states, the Ohio program will be broadcast by the stations which carry the National Farm and Home Hour. In Ohio, these stations include WLW at Cincinnati, WHKC Cleveland, and WSPD Toledo.

In announcing that the program is ready "to go on the air," Mr.
Higgy says he believes it will interest not only those who live on farms and in rural communities, but also folk in towns and cities as well. The theme of the broadcast is to be how the college of agriculture and the school of home economics at the university and the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster have and are aiding in meeting changing conditions.

With the Ohio State University's band and a quartette from the University Men's Glee Club to provide the music on the hour's presentation, the millions hearing the broadcast will be greeted by George W. Rightmire, president of the university, and hear from Dean John F. Cunningham, H. C.
Ramsower, director of the state agricultural extension service, Edmund Seerest, director of the state agricultural experiment station, and Miss Nellie Watts, assistant state home demonstration leader.

Scheduled also for brief contributions are an Ohio farmer, a farm homemaker, and students and faculty members at the university. The livestock and farm shop sounds that the microphone will probably pick up along with the broadcasts from the animal husbandry department's livestock arena and in the agricultural engineering building are expected to lend authentic farm color for the listeners.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—
BY BOB BURNS

It's had enough to lose your money through crooked associates, but I think even greater than the loss of your money is the shattering of your confidence in human nature.

One day Aunt Puncy came home from shopping and she found Uncle Chigger over in the corner with his face in his hands. He said "I'll never trust anybody again! Not long ago I signed some contracts for mining stocks and some contracts for oil stocks and then I endorsed a note for a friend and now they've all turned crooked and I'm completely wiped out!"

Aunt Puncy turned pale and says "Well, I don't care about the money but they tell me when poverty comes through the door, love flies out the window and I want you to promise me that you'll always love me." Uncle Chigger thought a while and says "Well, I'll give you my word—but I won't sign anything!"

Friend of Presidents
Found Dead in Home

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Nov. 22—(UP)—A coroner's jury will decide, probably today, the circumstances leading up to the mysterious and violent death of Howard Earl Coffin, nationally known industrialist and intimate friend of two presidents.

Coffin was found shot to death in his apartment in one of the several hundred Winter homes of northern millionaires on Sea Island in Brunswick Bay, Sunday. A single shot from his hunting rifle had penetrated his brain. The rifle was beside him.

All that was known was purely negative. Coffin could not have been slain. He was seen to enter the apartment after he had been downstairs to breakfast and the apartment was empty. The rifle was beside him in such a position as to show that the bullet had been fired by himself.

Sea Island, a tropical paradise in the gulf off the Georgia coast, had been one of the chief preoccupations of Coffin's life, and he had played a leading part in its development as a Winter Haven for wealthy residents of the North.
He had sold his large estate on a neighboring island, but continued to come here every Winter.

Found By Friend

Several weeks ago he arrived to be a guest in the home of his cousin, Alfred Jones. The Jones family was in New York, as was the second Mrs. Coffin. Yesterday morning J. D. Compton, general manager of the Sea Island development company, dropped in to discuss a deer hunt which they had planned for today.

He was shown in and there, on the floor, was Coffin, dead.
Servants said that Coffin had breakfasted a short while before Compton arrived. He had eaten heartily, appeared in excellent spirits. He went directly from the dining room to his apartment.
The servants did not hear the shot.
The fact that it was his hunting rifle which ended his life, suggested that he might have been cleaning it in preparation for today's hunt.

His island friends said that they had noticed that Coffin's health did not appear as good as it had been, but that there hadn't seemed to be anything seriously wrong with him. Though 64, he was active, always cheerful. So far as was known, he had had no financial difficulties and his happiness with his second wife, whom he married last June 1, was well known here. She was Gladys Baker, a newspaperwoman. She left New York immediately on receiving news of the tragedy and was due here today.

Compton was asked if he thought Coffin had accidentally shot himself.

"I cannot say it wasn't an accident," he said.

He said he was at a loss to explain what had happened.
"There was no one near the room and we just don't know," he declared.

Sea Island is one of several small islands off the coast here.
Unlike the others, it is connected to the mainland by a causeway.
Eugene O'Neill, the playwright, once owned a home there and is supposed to have written several of his best plays while living in it.
Henry Morgenthau, Jr., secretary of the treasury, and Sir Robert Borden, the Canadian government official, usually spent about two weeks there every Winter.

Used by Presidents

Coffin disposed of his own elaborate estate after the death of his first wife in 1932. It had been used as a Summer White House by his friends, former Presidents Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover. He was widely known and

OHIO AGRICULTURALIST WINS NATIONAL HONOR

COLUMBUS—Thirty-five years of service to Ohio agriculture has brought national recognition to Professor Charles S. Plumb, Ohio State University.

Professor Plumb, member of the animal husbandry faculty, was invited to Washington last week by the U. S. secretary of agriculture, for special ceremonies in his honor at the annual meeting of the Land Grant College Association.

Plumb has been a member of the Ohio State faculty since 1902, having previously been in agricultural and experiment station work in the states of New York, Tennessee, and Indiana.

CO-EDS WEAR BIG COLLARS

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UP)—Co-eds at the University of Missouri are going to the dogs—at least, as far as their clothes are concerned.
Three girls the other day appeared on the campus wearing dog collars complete with brass studs, name plates and locks.

FEWER 'RIDING RODS' NOW

LORAIN, O. (UP)—Railroad detectives report there are fewer persons riding freight trains through Lorain than at any time since 1930. Authorities say pickup in employment is the chief reason for the decrease.

SOUTHWEST'S BEST - - By Jack Sords

About This and That In Many Sports

NEWS FOR HI STUDENTS

Here's some news for high school pupils : : : Next Fall Ohio State university officials are planning two high school days : : : The first will be Oct. 1 when Indiana plays the Bucks; the second Oct. 22 when Chicago is the opponent : : : READ THIS: High school students from "A" to "L" cities—Aberdeen to Lyra—will attend the first game, and those from "M" to "Z" cities will see the second : : : An alphabetical, rather than geographical division, has been recommended by the state highway patrol as a better means of equalizing traffic

20 CORRECT; SIX INCORRECT

Saturday's predictions were right in some respects and wrong : : : The percentage was not much better than 76 with 28 games picked, 20 correct, six wrong, and two errors : : : The "wrong" were in picking Akron over Xavier, Dayton over Marshall, Duquesne over Marquette, Yale over Harvard, Navy over Princeton, and Rice over Texas Christian : : : All Big Ten games were named correctly except that in which Purdue turned back its most bitter rival, the Indiana team

11 POINTS MAR RECORD

Ohio State's gridgers had 10 points scored against them in all their Big Ten games, but they were sufficient to give Indiana a victory and Minnesota another championship : : : You have to give Coach Francis Schmidt a lot of credit for developing a winner after losing his varsity ends, some stellar linemen, a quarterback like Tippy Dye, and many other stars : : : Take out the Southern California game which the Bucks tossed away 12-13, and the Indiana game, in which Mike Kabealo's first period fumble cost a touchdown which might have changed

the entire outcome of the contest, the season was highly successful : : : The Ohioans were not to beat Purdue, but they did : : : The same thing held true against Northwestern, but the Scarlet Scourge team was up to its task : : : After Indiana gained a victory there were many who said Illinois would turn back the Bucks, but that was not to be : : : Then came the Michigan game and the Ohioans never played better ball : : : Truly, it's been a great season, and next year's promises to be just as splendid even though McDonald, Miller, Nardi, Ream, Crow, Wolf, Zarnas, Maggied and Chrissinger will be among the missing when the start of the season arrives

GOLDEN GOPHERS GOOD ENOUGH TO PACE CONFERENCE

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(UP)—Minnesota's Golden Gophers closed the books today on their poorest football season since 1933—and still wound up with another undisputed Big Ten championship. For the first time in four years they had no claim to national honors. Nebraska and Notre Dame saw to that. But outweighing those two defeats were five straight victories against conference foes who no longer feared the once-mighty scourge of the West.

Ohio State, only one of the title contenders, the gophers failed to meet, finished second with five victories and a single defeat—by Indiana. Indiana barely finished in third place, Northwestern and Michigan tied for fourth, Wisconsin and Purdue tied each other on the playing field and for sixth

Invitation To Be Issued To Western Team After Unblemished Season

Outcome of Few Remaining Games Awaited

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22—(UP)—California university's "wonder" team will be invited today to represent the West in the Rose Bowl, an honor which is accompanied by the Pacific Coast conference football title and the equivalent to a cash bonus of almost $100,000 in the gate receipts. The invitation, fourth to be tendered the Golden Bears in the modern history of the New Year's day classic, will be accorded by the 10 conference members. Each institution, including California, will telegraph its vote to Dr. Hugh C. Willett, University of Southern California instructor who is conference president. The bid will not become official until Dr. Willett counts the votes, but he said the outcome was a "foregone" conclusion.

Team Undeclared California won the championship Saturday by defeating the runner-up, Stanford, 13-0. The Bears finished their schedule without defeat. They won six conference games and tied one, a 0-0 deadlock with Washington.

As the Bears were voted in, speculation on the choice of an "eastern" opponent was rife. Two statements tended to clarify slightly the conflicting rumors. 1. Several team members, among them Bob Herwig and Sam Chapman, disclosed that an informal straw ballot taken among several of the varsity players indicated a preference for Pittsburgh. A year ago a poll of the Washington players indicated a similar preference and the Panthers were invited.

2. Indication that the Bear officials will withhold their selection until next week, apparently to await developments of the western and southern fronts, where the supposed big three—Pitt, Alabama and Fordham—complete their schedules. Alabama meets Vanderbilt, another eligible, at Nashville, Tenn., Thursday; Pitt meets Duke at Durham, N. C., Saturday; Fordham plays N. Y. U. in New York Saturday.

Dartmouth Possible Of the other aspirants, Dartmouth, lone undefeated ivy college, has ended its season as Lafayette; Holy Cross meets Boston College and Villanova comes here to play Loyola. Yale apparently was eliminated by the Harvard upset Saturday.

place in the standings. Illinois was eighth, Chicago ninth and Iowa finished at the bottom of the heap.

Minnesota earned its first undisputed title since 1934 against Wisconsin Saturday, 13 to 6. The Gophers scored in the first period and kicked the extra point that decided the game. Wisconsin hung on grimly, scored on Howie Weiss' seven-yard run around left end but failed to convert. The Gophers settled their business with another long touchdown march in the final period.

Notre Dame Blocks Punt for Score

MORE than 40,000 hardy souls braved the icy temperature and a knife-like wind to watch Notre Dame and Northwestern in their annual football classic at Dwyer stadium in Evanston, Ill. Notre Dame won, 7 to 0, when Captain Sweeney caught a blocked punt and scored. Action photo shows kick made by Jefferson (31) of Northwestern, which was blocked by A. Shellig (seen behind Jefferson) and caught by Captain Sweeney (47) who went over for a touchdown. Extra point was kicked by Andy Puplis.

Vitt Certain He'll Direct Fighting '9'

Must Overcome Board Of Directors; Others Go Down In Defeat

By HENRY McLEMORE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22—(UP)—I met the real condemned man of sports today, and he wasn't inside Alcatraz' grim walls. He sat before a dining room table in his home in nearby Oakland, sparring lustily with a heap of helping of frankfurters and sauerkraut. The man—and he was Oscar Vitt—actually appeared happy, despite the fact that when spring comes 'round he must assume the duty of managing the Cleveland baseball team.

I marvelled at the bravery of Vitt and his courage in hiding his rendezvous with disaster. Because that is what he has, Cleveland is the burial ground of baseball managers. Roger Peckinpaugh went there and left a beaten man. Walter Johnson went there and two years later ambled through the exit gate, thoroughly crushed. Steve O'Neill tried it for a year and a half and now he's looking for a job.

Now Vitt has signed to manage the Indians and bare his scalp to the hatchets of the directors who run the team. Composed of bankers, railroad men, paint tycoons, and merchants, this board starts second guessing the manager at 7 a. m. (eastern standard time) and, without even a stop during the seventh inning stretch, continues its work until 7 a. m. the next day. Nothing a manager does suits the August board. If he calls the infield in the board of directors wig-wags the players to get back. If he signals for a hit and run, the board of directors waves for a double steal. The board does not even approve of the counter-clockwise movement of the drinking fountain handle. I asked Vitt if he knew all of this. He said he did.

"Yes," he answered, "I have heard all about that. But sonny boy, Cleveland will play ball for me. If the boys don't like that, there will be a shake-up that will be a shake-up. There probably will be one, anyway. And Vitt won't be fired until two years are up, win, lose, or collapse. Because I've got a contract that calls for that long, and it's a civil contract, not a baseball one. But we are not going to lose or collapse. We are going to win. I'm a winning manager."

for another plate of frankfurters, or roughly half an hour. His enthusiasm is tremendous. It's enormous. No sophomore ever went to bat against his school's old rival with more spirit than Vitt shows for the Cleveland job.

His life long ambition has been to manage a big league club otherwise he hardly would have quit Newark, which wins pennants by 25 games, to take charge at Cleveland, baseball's Elba.

Vitt has definite ideas about Bob Feller, the sensational Iowa farm boy, with the blazing smoke ball. "Feller won't be a Sunday pitcher with me in charge," Vitt said. "He'll pitch whenever I want him to. He's a good pitcher, but he's going to be a better one under me. Bob will pitch when Vitt says so. Nobody else will have anything to say about his work."

In other words, Oscar Vitt is going to boss the Cleveland ball club.

That will be a novelty, even if he finishes in last place. Even if he can't beat the other clubs, beating the board of directors will be no mean accomplishment.

ASHVILLE, SCIOTO COURT QUINTETS TANGLE TUESDAY

A basketball game that may go a long way toward deciding the Pickaway county league title will be played at Ashville Tuesday evening between Al Kauber's boys and the Scioto township varsity. The game is moved up because of the Thanksgiving vacation. Several other teams of the county will be in action Tuesday evening, and others will play Wednesday.

Ashville and Scioto have two of the finest teams in the county loop, and a victory would give one of them a big edge in the county chase.

BUCKEYE SCHEDULE FOR NEXT TWO YEARS LISTED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—Ohio State university's football schedule for the next two years has been announced.

Games for 1938 include: Oct. 1, Indiana; Oct. 8, Southern California; Oct. 15, at Northwestern; Oct. 22, Chicago; Oct. 29, at New York University; Nov. 5, Purdue; Nov. 12, at Illinois; Nov. 19, Michigan.

Contests scheduled for 1939: Oct. 7, Missouri; Oct. 14, Northwestern; Oct. 21, at Minnesota; Oct. 28, Cornell; Nov. 4, Indiana; Nov. 11, at Chicago; Nov. 18, Illinois; Nov. 25, at Michigan.

To Alma Mater From Afar SEATTLE (UP)—Jean Rothenhoefer, 20-year-old senior in home economics at the University of Washington, traveled 7,000 miles across the Pacific Ocean so that she might attend the institution from which her mother was graduated. Her home was originally in Manila, P. I.

BUCKS TO PICK 1938 LEADER AT DINNER TONIGHT

Carl Kaplanoff Or Mike Kabealo Favored To Receive Honor

CO-CAPTAINS POSSIBLE

Schmidt Says Eleven At Peak Saturday

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—(UP)—An Ohio State team which missed being among the nation's top-ranked eleven by an extremely narrow margin will "huddle" for the final time here tonight when it meets to select a captain for 1938.

The selection will be made by lettermen at a meeting immediately preceding the annual "appreciation dinner" in honor of the Scarlet squad.

It appeared virtually certain that either Mike Kabealo, sterling halfback from Youngstown, or Carl Kaplanoff, bulky all-conference tackle, would be named the leader.

Numerous observers were inclined to believe the Buck players would again name co-captains with Kabealo and Kaplanoff sharing the honor as did Jim McDonald, Springfield, and Ralph Wolf, Youngstown, this year.

Michigan Trampled

The Bucks ended their campaign Saturday with a brilliant 21 to 0 victory over their traditional rival, Michigan. The win was the fourth in succession for Ohio over the Wolverines, and made the Bucks the third team in history to down Michigan four times in a row. The other teams to accomplish the feat were Minnesota and Michigan State.

Ohio was superior to Michigan in every department and dominated the game completely. Although the Bucks piled up an imposing yardage total by running with the ball, all their touchdowns came through the air. Two of the markers were made by Dick Nardi, and the other by Jim Miller. The accurate aerial thrusts were made by Nick Wasyluk.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt, basking in the satisfaction that comes only with a triumph over Michigan and relieved of the pressure that every Buck coach feels immediately before a battle with the Wolverines, said he believed the Scarlet team reached its season's peak Saturday.

MARSHALL'S WIN MAY DISRUPT B.A. GRID CONFERENCE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—(UP)—The spark that may touch off a dynamite-laden situation in the Buckeye conference flashed through the league ranks today as Marshall college fondled the circuit's gridiron championship.

Marshall, a member of the Buckeye since 1933, captured its first football title over the weekend when it grabbed a narrow, but convincing, 7 to 0 victory from the University of Dayton.

The championship taken by Marshall will not be inscribed in the Buckeye's record book as a popular one. The team of Cam Henderson has been the butt of a season-long attack from two charter members of the compact little collegiate circuit, who looked with disfavor on the sudden rise to power of the West Virginians.

Even before Marshall took its title, one league member threatened not to renew gridiron relations with the Huntington team. Now that the Herd has the championship the situation will not be helped any.

The entire case, on which the conference's future depends, is expected to provide the fireworks of any early December session of the Buckeyes here.

While the Buckeye heads may halt the Marshall march when at a conference round-table, it could not be done this season on the gridiron. While on its title journey Marshall defeated Miami 7 to 0; Ohio Wesleyan 21 to 6; Cincinnati 28 to 0; Dayton 7 to 0; and tied Ohio U. 13 to 13.

'SEA MOUNTIES' OUT OF ARCTIC AFTER 2 YEARS

Work Devoted to Receiving Tax Payments

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 22—(UP)—After more than two years patrol duty in the Arctic Circle, the sturdy vessel St. Roch, floating contingent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, returned here carrying nine men and a black husky dog.

The battered 140-foot police boat will remain here until next June, when another patrol will sail for the Arctic regions.

Commander of the vessel during its long trip into the frozen north was Sergt. H. A. Larsen, considered one of the most efficient Arctic skippers.

The St. Roch left Vancouver in June, 1935. Since that time, the men aboard the ship—forsaking civilization—had seen many strange sights. The boat anchored at Cambridge Bay, west of King William Island, more than 3,000 miles from here.

Using the bay as a base, the police patrolled ice-bound areas for miles in every direction.

Police Collect Taxes

Work of the Mounties is devoted to collecting taxes, issuing hunting licenses and in various ways carrying into the regions of the north the laws of the Canadian government.

One of the men was away from the ship, doing patrol, for 45 days, but the men said that was unusual.

"Usual patrol duty is for a two weeks' period," police aboard the ship said.

"We like it up there," Serg. J. W. Eddy, in command of the men, said.

"We had very little trouble. We found friendship and cooperation everywhere we went. In the winter we'd freeze in and prepare for a long siege.

"On our way outside we were held up a little by the ice breakup, coming through Beaufort Sea and Admunsen Gulf. We were forced back 60 miles," he said.

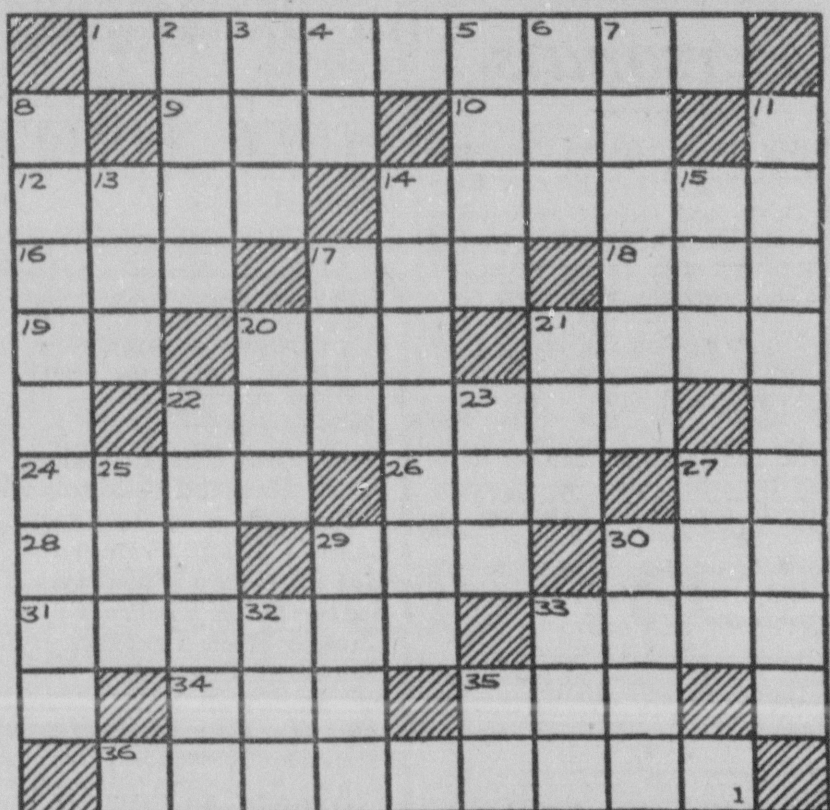

The St. Roch is a sturdy, comfortable ship, powered by a 50-horsepower motor. There is a compartment astern housing four bunks, a table, large iron stove and all necessary equipment of a northern sailing ship. Elsewhere on the boat are accommodations for the rest of the crew.

Dog Seems Unhappy

The big husky dog, Blackie seemed to dislike the Vancouver warmth on arrival here and tried at all times to snuggle into shade aboard the boat.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WASTING A TRUMP

DELIBERATE under-ruffing is not often in order, especially in a situation where an apparently worthless card of some other suit could be discarded in place of "wasting" a trump. There are unusual spots, though, in which considerations regarding the placing of the lead on the late tricks can outweigh the arbitrary intrinsic value of cards. The brilliant player who can see these emergencies has an opportunity to make plays which furnish rare satisfaction.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)
South arrived at a final contract of 6-Spades on this deal and West led the diamond Q, which South won with the K.

When the spade A was played and West showed out, South knew he must surrender one trump trick to the opponents and must therefore avoid the loss of a club. To the third trick he played to the heart A and returned a club, which

East covered with the J. West tossing the 10, to inform his partner that he held the 9. The heart 4 was then ruffed, the diamond A cashed and a diamond ruffed. On the heart K, a club was discarded in dummy.

When the heart J was led and covered by West's Q, declarer ruffed with dummy's K and East, left with three trumps and two clubs, realized what South was up to. So, instead of discarding a club, he under-ruffed with his spade 8. Declarer now played a club, on which East played the Q and South the A, and as West held the high club and East a sure trump, the declarer was set one trick.

JOHN G. BOGGS RE-ELECTED TO HEAD COUNTY CONSERVATION COMMITTEE

Township Groups, Chosen At Meetings, Gather In Circleville

John Boggs, W. Union street, was re-elected chairman of the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation Assn., at the annual election held Monday in the Farm Bureau home.

Wilbur Brinker, Walnut township, was re-elected vice chairman, and G. H. Armstrong, Salt-creek township, was named the third member of the committee. Mr. Armstrong succeeds Marvin Steeley, of Washington township, as a member of the committee. Paul Matthes, county compliance agent under the federal farm program, is the secretary and treasurer of the organization. Chairman of the township committees elect the county officers.

Fourteen attended the election meeting.

Approximately 45 members of the township committee attended a meeting following the election to receive instructions on the 1938 program. Surveys of Pickaway county farms are made by the township groups. Three men were elected recently in each township to serve as committee-men.

The survey to be conducted by the township committees, covering land productivity and the effects of erosion, will be made to establish farm bases for the 1938 soil conservation program. Farm surveys of previous years will be used for comparison in establishing the new bases.

Isaac E. Swackhammer, 72, Laurelville Native, Dies

Funeral services will be Tuesday at 1 p. m. for Isaac Ellsworth Swackhammer, 72, who died Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Tigner, in Brice, Franklin county. The rites will be conducted in Mt. Carmel church near Laurelville by the Rev. S. C. Elsea with burial in the adjoining cemetery by H. E. Deffenbaugh and Son.

Mr. Swackhammer, a lifelong resident of the Laurelville community, is survived by five children, Mrs. Tigner, Mrs. Mamie Peters, Stoutsville; Maxie, near Circleville; Albert and Rockford, of Laurelville, 19 grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

ANOTHER ATTACK ON BLACK HALTED BY ASSOCIATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(UP)—The supreme court rejected today the latest challenge to eligibility of Associate Justice Hugo L. Black. The new petition had asked that all questions relating to Black's right to sit on the high bench be settled "once and for all."

The challenge was contained in a petition filed last week by Robert Gray Taylor, Media, Pa., and Elizabeth L. Seymour, Salamanca, N. Y. They asked permission to file formal suit against President Roosevelt's only appointee to the tribunal.

They had filed a similar request earlier which was denied by the court last Monday. Their new plea raised several new questions not previously officially brought to the tribunal's attention.

Among these questions was that of whether Black had perjured himself in taking his jurist's oath because of the allegedly irrevocable character of the oath he took in becoming a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and whether he had been confirmed by the senate under false pretenses because he failed to reveal his one-time membership in the hooded order.

paign for action at the special session to revise or repeal the undistributed profits tax. But most legislative veterans believed that the administration would be fortunate if the farm bill alone is enacted before January.

Strong opposition to the wages-hours bill and the government reorganization bill appeared likely to prevent their enactment at the special session unless there is a speedy change in the outlook. Leaders believed there was a better chance for the national planning measure setting up modified "little TVA" regions if it is brought to debate.

Filibustering appeared to be as great an obstacle to the general program—excepting the farm bill—as the insurgent demands that congress drop the president's program to act at once for the encouragement of business.

Filibuster Goes On

Senate filibustering was scheduled to continue this afternoon against the anti-lynching bill. The obstructionists were assured of success as the farm bill will displace the measure tomorrow.

The senate has agreed to take up the anti-lynching bill again immediately after action on the crop control measure, but the prospects of a vote were dim.

WINDSOR'S SUIT AGAINST WRITER, PUBLISHER ENDED

LONDON, Nov. 22 — (UP) — The Duke of Windsor's libel suit against the author and publishers of the book, "Coronation Commentary," has been settled out of court, the lord chief justice of the Kings bench court announced today.

The lord chief justice denounced the author, Geoffrey Dennis, for writing a "foul, cruel libel" which "appeared almost to invite a thoroughly efficacious horsewhip."

He indicated that there might be criminal action against Dennis. The duke, through his solicitor, A. G. Allen, had filed the suit against William Heinemann, Ltd., the publishers, and Dennis, on April 27. He was annoyed with Dennis' statement that accused him of "muddling, fuddling and meddling" while on the throne.

The publishing house had sent a letter of apology to the duke, then at St. Wolfgang, Austria, the day before.

Today the lord chief justice consented to withdrawal of the record after a full and complete apology by the defendants who assumed damages and court costs.

Sir William Jowitt, representing the duke at today's proceedings announced that the defendants would pay a substantial sum in damage and costs which the duke would divide among various charities in which as the Prince of Wales and King, he had been interested.

EMMANUEL GRIFFEY, 79, VICTIM OF PARALYSIS

Emmanuel Griffey, 79, a Pickaway county native, died Monday at 8:15 a. m. at his home, 224 Randolph street, Ashville, after a three day illness of paralysis.

Mr. Griffey is survived by his widow, Maggie Williams Griffey, six children, Ms. Lily Armstrong and Mrs. Trece Holcomb, Columbus; Mrs. Nellie Frazier, Ashville; Chester, at home; Mrs. Mary Leonard, Duvall, and Mrs. Florence Clark, Circleville; 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; two brothers, Frank of Ashville and Denny of Etta, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Morris of Columbus.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Ashville Church of Christ with the Rev. James Hicks officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

Success Story

FROM messenger boy to president. That's the success story of John Holmes, of Chicago, new president of Swift & Co., the large packing firm. Holmes, who has the added distinction of being the first president in the history of the company not bearing the name of Swift, began work for the concern 31 years ago as a messenger.

STATE'S PAROLE INQUIRY STARTS

to be called as witnesses. Others also were to testify.

Mrs. Arch W. Naylor of Zanesville, wife of the man whose name figured in a newspaper expose of parole irregularities, was to be called as a witness.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, who is conducting the investigation at the request of Gov. Martin L. Davey, said that Leland S. Dougan, former parole board chairman who was asked to resign, would not be called before the grand jury.

The grand jury here was called chiefly for the purpose of examining records of banks, telephone and telegraph companies, and obtaining information which Duffy lacks power to obtain in any other way.

Grand juries will meet later in Cuyahoga, Lucas, Mahoning, Summit, Stark and other counties.

17 FIGHT AMANDA OPTION BALLOT IN COURT ACTION

LANCASTER, Nov. 22 — Protesting the recent local option election which approved prohibition of the sale of whiskey and beer, 17 residents of Amanda village have filed a petition in Common Pleas court alleging irregularities.

In the recent election the dyes collected 142 votes and their opponents, 139. The petition charges "divers persons not residents of Amanda village, Amanda township, Fairfield county, Ohio, were permitted to cast their ballots in said precinct, which ballots were received and tallied."

An informed source said the "divers persons" referred to school teachers, who allegedly spent their week-ends at their homes outside the township and heretofore had never participated in a township election.

The petition asks the election be declared null and void.

intention to attempt immediate negotiations over the grievances which precipitated the strike—the alleged lay off of almost 100 Fisher workers, and later the announced determination of the corporation to punish the four known "perpetrators" of the sit-down.

Last night he addressed 1,500 members of the Pontiac local, pleading with them to respect the union's contract with General Motors, won after last Spring's prolonged sit down strike.

"Wild cat strikes are plain anarchy and the few hundred sit-downers in the Fisher body plant might easily be the cause of a national strike."

He asked that all the men in the hall who agreed with his position, stand up. Only half the audience stood.

THREE CHARGED WITH ABDUCTION SEEK JURY TRIAL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 22 — (UP) — Three men accused of kidnapping and murder in connection with the death of Dr. James I. Seder, 79-year-old retired dry leader, asked for jury trials when arraigned before Judge H. Clay Warth here today.

The men are Arnett A. Booth, 46; John Travis, 25, and Orville Adkins, 25.

Their trials were set to begin Dec. 6, with Booth's case coming first. The court appointed counsel for Booth today. Travis and Adkins already had retained counsel.

Dr. Seder died a week ago after he had been held captive in an abandoned coal mine for 10 days.
